—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.

MINNIE MADDERN FISKE is dead. She began her career on the stage at the age of three, and ever since her work has been an inspiration to the stage, and to the public.

This generation will recall, especially, Mrs. Fiske's admirable performances in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" and "Becky Sharpe."

An earlier generation prefers to remember her as Minnie Maddern, in her teens, crouching with the light of a stage fire on her face, singing "In the Gloaming." Minnie Maddern honored her profession, one of the most useful because it awakens emotion and stimulates thought.

YOU WILL BE glad to hear that men of sound judgment feel cheerful about conditions. Paul Block, who owns newspapers all over the country, and, as the late Joseph Pulitzer used to say, "leads the life of a millionaire without its cares," arrived Monday in his private car from the East.

He says all his newspapers report improved conditions, and he believes we shall be well on the way back to prosperity before the election of 1932.

CHARLES BAAD, manager of the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel, who comes in contact with business men from every big city, says:

"They are all feeling better."

Hotel men will know what Mr. Baad means when he says:

"They no longer come in and write their own ticket, but simply say 'Give me my usual accommodations.'"

GEORGE YOUNG, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner, yesterday invited the principal financiers of Los Angeles to meet Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, whose writings on finance are known to you.

Mr. Rukeyser, who studies business, finance and industry impartially, believes that we are "in the trough of the depression" and from now on shall go upward.

HE REMINDED listening bankers that too much optimism must not be attached to the present rather violent upward whirl in stocks. Many "amateur baby bears" that were paying $250 a share for stocks in 1929 have recently been selling the same stocks short at $100, $50 and $30 a share or lower.

At the slightest sign of recovery such as the one caused by the Glass bill, these little bears are frightened to death, and all "cover" at once, causing a rise partly artificial. But things ARE better.

AN ENCOURAGING sign of business courage is the opening of another big store in Chicago by Sears, Roebuck, which seems to indicate that the universally regretted Julius Rosenwald did not take his firm's courage with him.

Gen. R. E. Wood, president of the business, selected by Julius Rosenwald, is a West Point Army man, trained for fighting.

It would cheer your heart, if you own Sears, Roebuck stock, to know the kind of bargain driven by Gen. Wood in renting the big store. It would make old Mr. Leiter turn in his grave to know the terms that Gen. Wood, on behalf of his stockholders, wrote into that Chicago lease.

MISS RUTH NICHOLS, three cheers for her, flew up 21,300 feet, beating Clarence Chamberlin's record in the same plane. At 20,000 feet two of her cylinders blew out and she was obliged to use her oxygen tank, at a temperature 15 degress below zero.

Human beings are air fish, living at the bottom of our atmospheric ocean, as water fish live at the bottom of their sea. For a human being to rise 20,000 feet into the air is as though a fish living at the bottom of the ocean a mile deep should rise about 60 feet above the bottom.

Men have a long way to go to reach the top of their air ocean, then forty million miles through the ether to the nearest planet. They MAY do it, but probably human life and experience will end here, with hope of many pleasant things hereafter.

THE LARGEST DIESEL engine ever built in America, only three thousand horsepower at that, has been shipped from St. Louis to Freeport, N. Y. It will work in a publicly-owned power plant.

The shipment should interest the power companies, for the Diesel engine, unless choked off or circumvented in some way, may worry power companies presently, as much as automobiles and automobile trucks now worry railroads.

SOME SPEAKEASIES in New York give their customers, free of charge, a complete dinner, with chicken and the usual concommitants.

Old-fashioned saloons used to give pretzels and pieces of cheese. Beer at $1 a bottle and whisky at $1 a drink make possible a liberality not possible with beer at 5 cents and whisky at 15, two for 25.

Mr. Canfield's gambling house next door to Delmonico's New York once offered its customers free champagne.

How would you like to run a hotel in New York with your restaurants empty, unable to compete with speakeasies supplying the best food at nominal prices or actually free of charge in return for whisky profit? That is the actual "prohibition" situation.

POLICE MASS TO BALK REDS

Mine Worker Ejected for Disturbing Councilmen; Say They'll Ignore Ban

Police were massing downtown at Diamond and Wood streets this afternoon with orders to break up the scheduled demonstration by National Miners' Union and International Labor Defense.

While the police were gathering, one of five Communists who appeared in Council chambers in the City-Council Building, was ejected for interrupting Council meeting.

He was William L. Patterson, Negro, of Webster avenue. The others explained they had come to ask that their downtown meeting be allowed to proceed.

Refused a permit by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, the demonstrators insisted they'd gather anyhow.

More than 50 patrolmen and mounted police were ordered to the scene. Curious pedestrians looked on.

At Council chambers 20 police and detectives were scheduled to stand guard. The demonstration was called as a protest against the fatal shooting of a National Miners' Union representative in Kentucky coal fields. The demonstrators said they were meeting at Diamond and Wood because the Pittsburgh Coal Company has an office there.

'Mounties' Gaining In Trapper Pursuit

AKLAVIK, Northwest Territory, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Pursued by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Canadian trappers, Albert Johnson, who has slain one "Mountie" and wounded another in recent battles, was fleeing down the Porcupine Valley today toward Alaska.

The posse was confident it will capture him long before he can reach the border, 175 miles distant. Using dog sleds, the police were gaining rapidly.

Albie Booth, Grid Star, Back at Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 17.—(INS.)—His fight against a lung infection apparently won, Albie Booth, Yale football star, returned to the university today after three months' treatment at Gaylord Farm Sanitorium, in Wallingford.

Albie left the sanitorium this morning and planned to resume his studies in Sheffield scientific school.

Costello Improved, Hope for Recovery

Henderson Fights Death With Oxygen

Little hope was held today for the recovery of Dr. W. L. Henderson, Allegheny County poor director, as physicians administered oxygen to combat an attack of pneumonia and influenza. He is confined in his residence, Fifth avenue, East McKeesport.

Stock Broker Ends Life in Home With Gun

Rudolph S. Dornberger, 41, stock broker and member of the Board of Governors, Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, was found dead, a bullet in his left temple in the bathroom of his home, 4401 Schenley Farms Terrace this afternoon.

His wife, Mrs. Frances Dornberger and a Negro maid, alarmed by hearing the sound of someone falling in the bathroom, found the door locked, police learned.

The maid ran to the Schenley Arms Pharmacy, a square away, at Bigelow boulevard and Center avenue, and asked for help. Three University of Pittsburgh students, Frank Firoi, 268 Bellefield avenue, and John Noll and Marvin Storer, of 258 Dithridge street, responded.

The students broke dow nthe bathroom door, they told police, and found Dornberger, a revolver by his side, lying in a pool of blood. Dornberger had been in ill health for several years, the Coroner learned. He left two children.

An unidentified Sewickley man leaped from the Sewickley-Coraopolis Bridge into the Ohio River this afternoon and was drowned, police reported. Borough firemen began dragging the river for his body.

20 ROBBERIES LAID TO BOYS

Four youths, all high school graduates and one of them a student at Carnegie Tech, were under arrest in New Kensington today charged with more than 20 robberies in residential districts there.

Police said the boys have confessed to many of the robberies.

They are Harold G. Howe, 21, and Ernest Howe, 19, of 1747 Kimble avenue, and Myron Geer, 19, of 1804 Victoria avenue, all of Arnold, and James Duncan, 19, of 1708 Ridge avenue, New Kensington.

All are graduates of Arnold High School, and Geer now is taking an engineering course at Carnegie Tech.

Chief of Police Dan J. Zeloyle said he found loot valued at more than $5,000 in the boy's homes.

They will be given hearings before Justice of the Peace Jenkin Howell, of New Kensington, today, the two Howes and Duncan charged with entering, breaking and larceny, and Geer with receiving stolen goods.

Two U. S. Gunboats Ordered to China

HONOLULU, T. H., Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Two gunboats of the United States battle fleet, which has just finished its "war games" off the Hawaiian Islands, today were ordered prepared for duty with the Asiatic fleet—the main portion of which was recently ordered to Shanghai.

The gunboats are the Asheville and her sister ship, the Sacramento. The Asheville will depart Saturday for the Orient, and the Sacramento will leave two weeks later.

Jail Father of 23 For Non-Support

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 17.—(INS.)—A father of 23 living children, Michael de Reso, 55, a peddler, today began a sentence of a year and a day in jail on charges of failing to provide for five of them, as well as his wife. In Recorder's Court, he said he once owned a $100,000 orchard in Marlboro, N. Y.

TEXANS OPEN DRIVE FOR GARNER

Lone Star Senators Offer Speaker as Candidate for President; Laud Record

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The Garner boom came smashing out as a national drive today, but the sturdy Texan stuck to his job as Speaker of the House, refusing to take any part in the movement that seeks to put him in the White House.

Formally, the two Senators from Texas, Sheppard and Connally, offered the speaker as a Democratic presidential candidate, not as a "favorite son" of the Lone Star state, but as a statesman supremely qualified in national affairs.

They promised him the solid vote of the Texas delegation to the Chicago convention and forecast that his candidacy would gain wide support as Democrats all over the nation learned more of his service and character.

DRIVE VOLUNTARY

Garner said immediately he had known nothing of the statement beforehand. He emphasized he had no authorized spokesman and that any statements on his behalf were purely voluntary. He would not talk about presidential prospects at all, saying:

"My job is speaker of the House and I am confining myself solely to the job of running this House."

It is exactly the way he is running that job that his enthusiastic supporters offer as the biggest sales argument in their quest for Garner votes. The Texas Senators said:

"He has been speaker of the House now for only a few weeks. During that period the House, under his leadership, has attracted the attention of the whole country by reason of its

JOBLESS MAN STEALS, JAILED

For stealing a package of cigarets, an unemployed man went to jail today to serve a 10-day sentence.

James Cummings, 35, of Youngstown, O., who said he was the father of three children, admitted to Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court that he had taken the cigarets. He said:

"I walked from Youngstown to McKeesport to get a job. I had to get money to support my wife and kids. One of my kids just died. I couldn't get a job so I started back. I took the cigarets, but the manager saw me."

The manager, A. C. Schwartziel, testified against Cummings. The store, 5-and-10, is at 1501 Carson street.

Fined $5, with an alternative of 10 days, Cummings went to jail.

Two Connellsville Mines to Resume

CONNELLSVILLE, Feb. 17.—Announcement was made today that the Yough-Connellsville Coal and Coke Company has leased the Davison and Trotter mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and will start full-time operations. About 400 men will be employed at Davison and 300 at Trotter.

Officials said the output of the mines has been contracted for by the North American Fuel Corporation, a by-products company headed by Frank E. Taplin, of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad.

JAIL PORTRAIT TRAPS SUSPECT

For his arrest in Cleveland, A. Lee Phillips can thank a pal who once sketched his likeness while they were cellmates in Western Penitentiary.

It was a pretty good sketch, and Phillips gave it to a girl who was a pretty smart girl. Later the girl, Miss Rachel Rosso, had some money and jewelry stolen, and she blamed Phillips. Police say Phillips admitted the robbery and gave Miss Rosso a "rubber check." When it was returned she suffered a nervous breakdown and is now in Allegheny General Hospital. Phillips fled.

Miss Rosso gave the sketch to Pittsburgh police, who also wanted Phillips in connection with a hold-up of a Dohler Brothers' automobile agency salesman and the Cleveland arrest followed.

Monuments Moved From Vatican Palace

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Engineers today ordered the removal of heavy antique monuments kept in a section of the Vatican palace because a number of new cracks have been discovered in the masonry.

Since a section of the Vatican wing collapsed several weeks ago faults have been found at several points in the ancient structure.

Three Families Flee Fire at Clairton

Three families were driven from their apartments and damage estimated at $7,000 was caused by fire in a two-story brick building at 506 State street, Clairton, last night. The families of Edward Fisher, Wilbur Eichler and Joseph McCann fled to the street when smoke filled their homes. Fire Chief F. C. Tepe was cut on the hand fighting the flames.

TWO BRITISH SEAMEN KILLED BY SHELLS IN SHANGHAI

The American government was expected to send a stern note to Japan as developments in the Far Eastern crisis grew more menacing today.

Secretary of State Stimson informed Ambassador Debuchi at Washington that the United States has several courses of action open, one being to demand damages from Japan for destruction of American life or property.

Stray Chinese shells killed two British seamen at Shanghai. Premier MacDonald at London immediately called his cabinet into session to consider the situation.

At Shanghai, Japanese forces prepared for the greatest aerial offensive since the World War to drive Chinese from the city.

The United States government ordered two gunboats stationed at Honolulu to join the American fleet at Shanghai.

TOKIO AWAITS NOTE

Stimson Expected to Send Representations to Jap Government

International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb. 17.—The United States is preparing a stern note of protest to Japan over her use of the International Settlement in Shanghai as a base of operations against the Chinese, Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshisawa was informed today.

In a cable from Ambassador Debuchi in Washington, Yoshisawa was told that Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, would hold Japan responsible if Chinese forces should also use the Settlement as a base of operations and loss of American lives or property resulted.

Debuchi reported Stimson was seeking the co-operation of France and Great Britain on the stand. The Japanese Ambassador to Washington revealed he had had a series of conferences with Stimson, and that Stimson had remained adamant, refusing to give in to arguments Debuchi set forth.

MAY SEEK DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—The United States government is seriously considering the question of holding Japan legally responsible for damage to American life or property in Shanghai, it was stated on responsible authority today. Property damage in Shanghai has been enormous, and foreign property, including American, has suffered along with the rest.

No note has been drafted for dispatch to Japan on this subject, and none is in the course of preparation for the present. As yet no formal representations

KILLINGS STIR BRITAIN

English Officials Await Complete Details of Seamen's Deaths

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The killing of two British sailors in the resumption of fighting in Shanghai today threw Whitehall into a furore.

Official comment was withheld pending receipt of complete details from British authorities at Shanghai.

The situation was considered so grave that Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald left the nursing home in which he was recovering from a recent operation upon his eye and arrived at No. 10 Downing street early in the day.

Wearing a black patch over his eye, the Premier appeared pale and worried.

He presided over a cabinet meeting which began immediately a discussion of the Shanghai situation and prepared to draw up instructions for Sir John Simon, foreign minister, to take to Geneva with him tomorrow.

Bombarded by queries in the House of Commons, Sir John declared the British government was not considering concerted international action and would not participate in a sea blockade of Japan, but was keeping steadily in mind the situation of the Dominions with regard to Japanese aggression.

Sir John reiterated that Great Britain had protested three times to Japanese military authorities over use of the International Settlement as a base for military activities, the Japanese replying each time that the action was taken in defense of Japanese Nationals.

John Tinker, a Laborite, shouted:

"Are we powerless then to do anything more than we are doing?"

Cries of "Do you want war?" from the Conservative benches re-

Bombers Sought in Jersey For Anti-Fascist Plot

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Government operatives were closing in today on the headquarters of an international bombing gang, believed to be responsible for recent outrages throughout the country and the planting of explosives in the Vatican at Rome.

Twentyfive men, investigators for the Department of Justice and the Postoffice Department, are concentrated in Newark, N. J., which is not far from the lair of the ring somewhere in Northern New Jersey.

Statements by federal agents linked beyond doubt the Easton (Pa.) depredation, in which two men were killed, and the bomb that was snatched from the chancel rail in historic St. Peter's in Rome where Premier Mussolini prayed.

A gigantic anti-Fascist plot, with its origin in the United States, is held responsible and one important clue was being traced today in Detroit, where Inspector Richard Kelly, in charge of the Newark activities, was hastening to locate a witness.

Blow in Boxing Ring Kills Grandson of Borden

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Gail Christian Ulrich, 20, grandson of Gail Borden, wealthy New York milk products manufacturer, died today of injuries which physicians believed he suffered in a city lightweight championship boxing match.

Ulrich was struck on the ear last Thursday in the amateur championship fight he won against Jackie Austin.

Coroner James J. Corrigan said he believed the death accidental, though resulting from the match. He would, he said, question Austin, Match-Maker James Carton and Referee Charles Pilkington. He expressed the opinion death might have been caused by meningitis resulting from a fractured eardrum.

The fight was the second between Austin and Ulrich. During an early round, when Austin held a decided advantage, he struck Ulrich a hard blow on one ear. Ulrich was heard to say, "Don't do that, Jackie." Despite the injury, Ulrich came back in subsequent rounds to win the fight and city amateur championship.

SENATE SPEEDS BANK AID, DEFEATS RELIEF FOR JOBLESS

750 MILLIONS FOR ROADS AND POOR REFUSED

Glass-Steagall Measure To Widen Federal Reserve Credits Near Enactment

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—After rejecting all proposals for extending direct federal relief to the unemployed, the Senate today rushed enactment of the Glass Seagall bill, designed to liberalize the Federal Reserve structure while releasing a fresh flood of credit throughout the national banking system.

Administration leaders hoped to obtain the Senate's approval of the bill before nightfall. It must then go to conference to iron out differences between the House and Senate, since the two bills differ slightly.

The administration's haste in enacting the banking relief measure gave the insurgents an opportunity to compare that sentiment with the Senate's refusal to provide direct relief for the unemployed. Every effort to appropriate federal funds to aid the states and local communities in aiding the jobless was defeated.

RELIEF BILL BEATEN

The La Follette-Costigan bill with its $750,000,000 appropriation, divided between direct relief and contributions for building rural postroads was beaten by a vote of 35 to 48. The insurgents and 19 Democrats supported the measure, while the administration ranks and 21 conservative Democrats voted against it.

There was little controversy in the Senate over the Glass-Steagall bill aside from insurgent opposition to the government passing so many measures designed to aid the banks.

The Senate bill would limit loans to individual banks having less than $500,000 capital. The House put no limitation on these. In conference, a compromise limiting such loans to banks having a capital of $2,000,000 or less will be adopted. Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, author of the bill, said such a provision would provide relief for all but 136 national banks.

U. S. BONDS FOR CURRENCY

Aside from these provisions both House and Senate will agree on authorizing the Federal Reserve Board to accept "direct obligations of the United States" from Federal Reserve Banks either for rediscount or for issuance of currency.

Funds of the Emergency Association are expected to run out in the middle of June if they are spent at the present rate. Each worker is paid $3.20 daily until he has earned $100 at which time his place is turned over to another worker who has, as yet, received nothing. After a worker's $100 is exhausted he is eligible for relief from relief agencies according to John Beatty, of the Emergency Association, at the association's expense.

Davis Votes for Relief Bill, Reed Against It

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's two Republican Senators divided their votes yesterday on the LaFollette-Costigan unemployment relief bill.

Senator Davis, a former member of President Hoover's cabinet, voted with independent Republicans in favor of the measure which was opposed by the administration supporters, cast his vote against it.

LINK DIAMOND, U. S. AGENTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Charges that federal narcotic agents had protected the gangster, Jack Diamond, from questioning by the New York City police were laid before the House Rules Committee by Representative Black (Dem.), of New York in asking for a congressional investigation of narcotic law enforcement.

Black said that when a warrant was issued for the gangster who has since been killed Diamond "surrendered to the federal narcotic people became federal property and received federal protection from questioning."

Bank Reopening Plan Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The joint reorganization committee working on plans for reopening Washington's three closed banks has announced that a plan would be ready this week to send to Secretary of Banking W. D. Gordon for his consideration. No intimation of the nature of the results of several weeks of effort is given, but members of the committee profess to feel encouraged over the probability of a new bank which will release more than $5,000,000 in deposits.

THE JOLLY DAIRYMEN -:- By Quin Hall

SENATE SCORED BY PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Billions for big business but not one cent for bread for a starving child" was Gov. Pinchot's comment today upon the United States Senate's defeat of the La Follette-Costigan $750,000,000 direct relief bill. He said:

"If the American people were not in doubt as to who owns and operates the government in Washington, this ought to settle it."

"Eight million unemployed, with enough dependents to make 20 or 30 million of our people in deep distress. Will the government—their government—help give them food? Not on your life.

"A great corporation may get $100,000,000 under the reconstruction law just passed, but a starving family can get nothing.

"According to our rulers it is all right to help the needy abroad, but all wrong to help the needs at home."

Lame Duck Congress Conferees Named

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The Senate today disagreed to House changes in the resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to abolish the short or "lame duck" session of Congress and asked for a conference to iron out the differences.

PARIS SPEEDS CABINET CHOICE

PARIS, Feb. 17.—(AP)—President Paul Doumer took up the task of finding a new Premier of France early today to replace Premier Pierre Laval, whose government resigned yesterday after it was defeated in the Senate on an issue of confidence.

Premier Laval's cabinet held over during the interim.

Two-Cent Foreign Postage Abolished

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The Postoffice Department today discontinued the 2-cent rate for letter mail to Central and South America and installed a new rate calling for 3 cents for one-ounce letter mail. The department now has no country on the list to which 2 cents will carry a first class letter.

A rate of 2 cents for postal cards to Latin America and 4 cents for double postal cards was instituted.

JAPAN SPURNS LEAGUE PLEA

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb. 18.—(1 a. m.)—The Japanese reply to the League of Nations Council communication, drafted last night bluntly informs the council that its action in invoking Article 10 of the league covenant and calling attention to the nine-power Pacific pact and the Kellogg treaty, "was improper."

This was learned by International News Service early today, a few hours after Kenkichi Yoshisawa, foreign minister, had received from Naotake Sato, Japanese delegate at Geneva, the text of the note sent by the League of National Council of 12.

GENEVA, Feb. 17.—(INS)—Preparations were made today for a full public session of the League of Nations Council at which definite action will be taken toward fixing responsibility for the menacing situation at Shanghai.

Well-informed circles predicted the council would move to place this responsibility squarely upon Japan, if the Tokio government proves recalcitrant in acting upon the 1,000-word note, recalling Japan's obligations under Article X of the League of Nations Covenant, which was handed to Japanese delegate, Naotake Sato, last night.

HOOVER URGES U. S. BUREAUS BE REVISED

Forecasts Millions Saved Through Elimination of Overlapping Activities

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Asking support for a wholesale reorganization of the government, President Hoover today dispatched a special message to Congress recommending the creation of four new federal offices.

He requested simultaneously the major alteration and changing in title of four other federal departments. Under the eight new and altered divisions he would consolidate present overlapping activities in an effort to subtract "millions of dollars annually" from the tax burden.

Authority also was asked for the chief executive to transfer and consolidate executive and administrative groups merely through one issuance of executive orders, each to lie before Congress for 60 days before becoming effective.

FOUR NEW POSTS

Here are the four new posts he would have Congress create:

A public works administrator, to construct and sometimes operate all federal projects except those of the Army and Navy.

An assistant secretary for public health to head all such federal work.

An assistant secretary for Merchant Marine, drawing into the Commerce Department all marine shipping regulation, including inland waterways.

An assistant secretary for conservation, to combine now scattered efforts.

Posts which Mr. Hoover would alter include:

A personnel administrator, instead of chairman of the Civil Service Commission, to combine all personnel agencies of the government.

An assistant secretary for education, consolidating the office of education, its commissioner and other educational activities.

An assistant secretary for agricultural research, broadening the title of the present assistant secretary.

An assistant secretary for agricultural economic, giving higher title to the present director.

$40,000 SALARY INCREASES

The President informed Congress the salaries of these officials would cost an additional $40,000 a year, but that the "saving in the cost of the administration would be many times this sum."

No mention was made by Mr. Hoover of moves now on foot on Capitol Hill to consolidate the Army and Navy into a single department. He is known to be opposed to such a step.

Recalling that other presidents had requested general consolidations without major results, the President warned Congress that such steps in the past had been "a signal for the mobilization of opposition from all quarters," especially within the departments affected.

Nevertheless, he laid down the principle that there must be reorganization of activities under the head of the "major purposes," and with administrative and legislative functions having "single-headed responsibility."

At the same time he recommended a separate legislative reorganization of policy in two fields: reclamation and conservation of the Western ranges.

Reclamation, he said, should be broadened to include conservation of water by storage in all parts of the country.

8 Merchants Fined For Sunday Selling

POLICE CHECK KIDNAP STORY

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Without explanation, state police have announced they intend to check "very carefully" Harry H. Blagden's story that he was kidnaped here last Thursday night.

Their announcement last night revealed that a trooper had flown to Cleveland, where Blagden turned up late Monday night, to remain with the wealthy sportsman until he was ready to return here.

Blagden disappeared last Thursday night from E. Roland Harriman's cottage at the fashionable Lake Placid Club. The family of the man then received a letter in his handwriting saying he had been kidnaped and that his abductors demanded $1,000 ransom.

A brother went to Tupper Lake to keep a rendezvous and pay the $1,000, but no kidnapers appeared. Nothing was heard from Blagden until he turned up at the home of a friend in Cleveland. He said he had been taken to Cleveland by his captors and that he had escaped there.

Troopers and the family of Blagden did not work together on the case.

JAPANESE CHIEF SEEKS PEACE

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17.—Marmoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, will meet commanders of the Chinese Nineteenth army tomorrow and endeavor to arrange for complete cessation of hostilities.

This announcement was made shortly before midnight tonight, but Wu Te-Chen, Mayor of the native Chinese city of Shanghai, told International News Service there was not "one chance in a thousand" that the negotiations would succeed.

U. S. Airman Flies Through Gun Fire

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Tom Derby, an American civilian aviator, came through a bombardment by both Chinese and Japanese anti-aircraft guns today on his way down from Nanking and successfully landed his ship on the race course here.

Derby said anti-aircraft shells popped all around him as he passed over the Chinese lines, but neither he nor his plane was hit. January 25, Derby went up to Nanking to demonstrate his ship to a prospective purchaser.

Nixon Restaurant Damaged by Fire

A still alarm shortly before noon today brought fire apparatus to the Nixon restaurant, Sixth avenue, and temporarily blocked traffic in William Penn way and Sixth avenue. An electric fuse had blown out with a brilliant flash. Firemen had to tear away panelling to make sure the woodwork had not ignited. The damage was estimated by the restaurant proprietors at $10.

Stray Shells Kill British Seamen

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17.—(INS)—Two British sailors, struck by stray Chinese shells while guarding British property along the Hongkew wharf of the International Settlement, today died of shrapnel wounds.

The shells were from Chinese guns obviously aimed at Japanese warships. Two of them exploded dangerously near British steamers, although no damage was caused by these.

Foreign concern over the affair indicated a serious international complication.

The seamen killed were E. T. Francis and H. G. Pryor, members of the guard of H. M. S. Suffolk.

STRONG PROTEST

British consular authorities lodged a strong protest with Chinese officials. While naval officers and ratings were highly indignant over the incident, the British community was mainly ignorant of the tragedy, and will not learn of it until publication of tomorrow morning's newspapers.

Both Japanese and Chinese guns were booming when the stray shell struck the sailors.

Between 45 and 50 shells from the guns of both sides fell within the Settlement lines in all, many of them in areas guarded by United States Marines.

The American-owned Park garage, situated on North Szechuen road near Scott road, inside the Japanese defense lines, was one of many buildings completely destroyed by fire resulting from Chinese shells.

These shells also destroyed the British Llewellyn Aerated Water Company's works on North Szechuen road.

Meanwhile the artillery duel between Chinese and Japanese forces continued. Japanese were concentrating 100 planes in preparation for the greatest aerial offensive since World War days.

Capt. S. Tomita, spokesman for the Japanese headquarters, said an ultimatum would be issued to the Chinese demanding their withdrawal from Shanghai.

have been made either at Tokio or to the Japanese ambassador, Katsuji Debuchi, in Washington.

However, Secretary Stimson has informed Debuchi that this government considers it a perfectly sound legal position that Japan should be held financially responsible for injury to American life or property in the International Settlement at Shanghai which might result from the Japanese use of the Settlement as a base for military operations against the Chinese army on Chinese soil.

SEVERAL COURSES

Stimson made it clear to Debuchi that this was only one of several courses of action which the United States and other neutral powers were considering as a result of Japan's military activities in China. The conversation was held to an informal status because Stimson wished to make no formal representations at this time.

The American government has discussed this position with Great Britain, France and Italy, but has not yet sought support for a unified stand on the matter. All the conversations have been informal in tone.

U. S. Consul Watts Japan's Action In School Raid

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17.—(INS)—American Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham was informed today of another attack upon the American mission school of the Methodis Episcopal Church South by armed Japanese sailors last Friday night.

This was after Japanese officials had promised Cunningham such an incident would not occur again, and Cunningham now awaited the Japanese excuse for the breach of their promise.

The school, located on Quinsin road in the Hongkew section, was seriously damaged as raiders looted and wrecked the premises, smashing furniture and windows.

John C. Hawk, head of the school, showed a representative of the consulate about the wrecked building. He pointed out that he had raised an American flag on the front of the building, which was promptly torn down by the Japanese.

Hawk also was highly incensed over the boarding up of doors and windows by the Japanese.

The school had been raided twice before by the Japanese, who apparently sought anti-Japanese propaganda. The students fled at the first outbreak of the Shanghai hostilities.

Scotland Yard Opens Quiz Into Hoax Death of Deb; German Drug Investigated

By CHARLES J. M'GUIRK
International News Service.

BOSTON, Feb. 17. — The belief that Elizabeth Barrett Cook, 20, was murdered and was not a suicide, held in two corners of the world, awaited proof with the arrival of the steamship Chinese Prince late today or tomorrow.

St. George Arnold, the fiance of the dead girl, insists that she did not commit suicide. He declares she was murdered in her stateroom aboard the British liner as the vessel trundled leisurely toward America and Miss Cook's marriage. Today he declared his belief that the girl took her death potion unknowingly.

Meanwhile, Dr. William S. Boos, noted Boston toxicologist, identified the German drug found in the girl's stateroom as a narcotic known as "quadronal." He said it contained cloral and was used for sleeplessness and was similar to veronal. He declared that an overdose would prove fatal.

BRITAIN INTERVENES

That the British authorities agree with him was indicated by an order wirelessed to Capt. Horace Uncles, of the Chinese Prince, that St. George Arnold and his counsel be allowed to see the hoax message announcing Arnold's alleged death.

The British foreign office is tremendously interested in that message, so interested that officials have requested that the State Department of the United States make photostatic copies of it and forward it by the fastest medium to Gibraltar, where Elizabeth died, so that it may be studied.

The man or woman who signed it "Helen James" is the object of the greatest interest to Scotland Yard, which takes over a case only when local authorities find it beyond their capabilities.

USED NO DRUGS

Arnold declared today that there was no necessity for the presence in her cabin of the synthetic German drug which was found in a vial half-emptied in her cabin.

Elizabeth, he declared, did not use drugs in any form. He insisted that the narcotic and the rectified ether found in her cabin at the time of her death must have been placed there by some person who knew the reactions which would ensue from her belief that her fiance was dead. The British secret service agrees with him.

Ether-Soaked Cloth Found In Cabin of Heiress

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—The theory that Miss Elizabeth Barrett Cook, Boston society girl who died mysteriously at sea, was murdered, gained ground today as Gibraltar authorities anxiously awaited information from Berlin expected to identify a German drug, traces of which were found in her vital organs.

Dr. A. G. Holbarrow, municipal toxicologist, immediately communicated with British authorities in London when his investigation revealed traces of quadranal, a German drug with which he was unfamiliar, asking them for information regarding the narcotic through diplomatic channels.

The physician also revealed that an ether-soaked cloth was found in the girl's cabin aboard the liner Chinese Prince. The bottle which had contained the drug also was discovered.

THUG TRAPPED IN CAR DOOR

An alert street car motorman averted a holdup of his car and several passengers last midnight when he closed his doors on the gun arm of a bandit who attempted to board the car at the Camp Ground stop in Mifflin Township.

Imprisoned as the door closed, the gunman was dragged several feet as the motorman, P. E. Newland, of McKeesport, started the car. The bandit managed to free himself and escape.

According to Newland, who was running a McKeesport route No. 56 car outbound, he halted his trolley at the Camp Ground stop to permit the "passenger" to board.

Before boarding the car, the man drew a gun and thrust his arm through the open car doors, commanding the motorman to hold up his hands. Instead of complying, Newland threw the lever closing the doors.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Hollywood invaded Broadway today. Ernest Lubitsch, motion picture director, was here from the Pacific Coast, he said, to produce a musical comedy.

With him came Dimitri Tiomkin, modern Russian composer and pianist, who, together with Albertina Rasch, danseuse, was to join him in the venture. Jeanette MacDonald, screen actress, arrived with the Lubitsch party.

Roosevelt's nomination of Al Smith for the presidency in 1924 and 1928, in an interview here yesterday announced that she will support Roosevelt's candidacy at the Chicago convention because she thinks he will win. She said:

"Al Smith is not a candidate. That is very plain to anybody who read his statement."

She predicted that Roosevelt will carry Allegheny County by a large majority over Hoover. She concluded:

"Pittsburgh Republicans who voted for Hoover, as well as those who voted for Pinchot, are ashamed to admit that they did."

PARK AT BUTLER CONFERRING ON KLINE JURY

'Mystery Woman' Reported Canvassing Venire Known, District Attorney Asserts

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 17. — District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny County, took further steps today to prevent tampering with the March venire from which the jury will be selected to try Pittsburgh's Mayor, Charles H. Kline, and his deposed Director of Supplies, Bertram L. Succop.

Park, visiting Butler County yesterday to confer with District Attorney Edgar H. Negley and other court officials, announced he would assist to the "fullest extent of his office" the prosecution of individuals seeking to influence prospective jurors. He said:

"I have inquired into the reported activity of a 'mystery woman' in Butler County and I have assured District Attorney Negley of our whole-hearted cooperation in blocking any such attempts. Of course, the matter rests in Butler County's hands, and I feel certain that our interests are well protected."

"We believe we know the identity of the Pittsburgh woman believed to be canvassing the jury panel, and we are prepared to have her activities checked."

Park and Negley conferred for several hours. Matters of court routine were discussed, Park said after the conference. Allegheny County's District Attorney was accompanied by an assistant, Roy T. Clunk, County Prosecutor in the Barcoski case for which a change of venue was granted last year.

Clunk, by reason of his experiences in trying that case out of the county, is able to advise Park on matters of court detail for which Allegheny County must reimburse Butler County.

GANDHI'S GIRL AIDE DEFIANT

BOMBAY, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Miss Madeline Slade, former English society girl and now disciple and attendant of Mahatma Gandhi, ordered to leave Bombay tonight, still was in the city today and planned to remain here.

Defiant of the order of the Bombay chief of police to abstain from anti-government activities in behalf of Gandhi's Nationalist campaign, Miss Slade bluntly replied:

"Come to my home any time Thursday, I shall be there."

She added she would continue her activities, which virtually meant she would promptly be arrested at the expiration of the time allotted her to leave Bombay.

If arrested, the Englishwoman will be the first European taken in the government's drive to suppress Nationalist activities. She would join the remainder of the Gandhi household in jail, including the aged Nationalist leader himself, his wife, and his two sons.

Greta Garbo Cited For Staying on Horse

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Greta Garbo's ability to stay on a horse became a matter of record in the Superior Court of Los Angeles yesterday. Marion P. Bryant, society girl, testified she fell from a mount rented to her by Roy L. Davis, riding academy proprietor. She asked $18,299 for injuries. Davis said defensively:

"Well, anyway, Greta Garbo rides that horse and has never fallen off of it. Miss Garbo is a good rider."

IRISH ELECTION CONTEST CLOSE

DUBLIN, Feb. 17. — (AP.) — Intense excitement prevailed through the Irish Free State today as the people awaited the result of the count of ballots cast in yesterday's elections, upon which hangs the fate of the government of President Cosgrave.

Most observers expressed the belief that the margin for the winner, whether President Cosgrave or his rival Eamonn De Valera, leader of the Fianna Fail, would be small. Some of the returns might be delayed for days, they said.

The election passed quietly, in spite of the violence which resulted in two deaths Monday. Troops at hand to maintain order were not needed. Civil guards, with clubs, quelled minor outbreaks. Carts drawn by donkeys, as well as automobiles and motor trucks, were used to get out the vote.

Two boys, one 13 and one 16, were permitted to vote in Dublin when their names were found on the lists. A 2-year-old baby, inadvertently listed, was carried to a booth and its vote recorded.

3 BOYS LASHED IN COURT POSE AS HEROES

Two Mothers Approve of Whipping, One Protests; Never Again, Says Judge

WOODBURY, N. J., Feb. 17. — (AP.) — Using a belt from his uniform, Sergt. William Porch thrashed three schoolboys last night, carrying out sentences of 10 lashes each imposed by Police Recorder Johnson.

The first public whipping in the history of modern New Jersey courts occurred when the boys, Franklin Heiser, 16, Norman Redfield, 15, and William Elliott, 12, appeared to be unimpressed with Recorder Johnson's severe reprimand of their disorderly conduct at a motion picture show.

The mothers of two of the boys agreed to the Recorder's suggestion as to punishment. While Johnson held them, Sergt. Porch applied the strap and the faces of 25 companions of the boys who came "to see the fun" grew sober.

The youths were arrested on complaint of the theater manager who stated they were annoying patrons.

Johnson said the whippings were the first—and the last—to be ordered by him. He said:

"When I ordered the punishment I intended to ridicule the boys, but the effect was apparently just the opposite. The boys have come to be regarded somewhat as heroes."

Mrs. George Redfield, mother of Norman, today denounced as "outrageous" the recorder's action in ordering the whippings, and said she was considering consultation with her attorney. She said:

"My consent was not asked. I could have given my son a proper whipping at home if I thought he deserved it."

Flinn in nomination as a Republican candidate for Congress from the Thirtieth District, embracing the Twenty-first to Twenty-seventh wards, inclusive, on the North Side, and all the boroughs and townships north of the Allegheny River and outside the city of Pittsburgh.

The district now is represented by Edmund F. Erk, who succeeded the late Stephen Porter.

Flinn is a son of the late Senator William Flinn, once a political power in local and state affairs. He resides in Indiana Township.

Friends who took out the petitions today said they were going to "draft" Flinn, who is out of the city.

Garner's Home Town Friends Organize

DETROIT, Tex., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—A hundred Texans, most of whom knew Speaker Garner as just "John," gathered in his old home town last night to form a Garner-for-President club.

They braved the blackland mud and a heavy fog to come to the Chamber of Commerce Hall. Congregating about a smoky woodburner stove they effected an organization to "Remain Active and in Force Until John Garner Is Elected President."

Garner's relatives were well represented at the meeting. A brother, Jolly Garner, his wife and a daughter; a sister, Mrs. John R. Wright and her daughter were among those present. There were handclaps when, as the members were being enrolled, the name of "John Garner" was called for the Speaker's namesake nephew.

INSISTS FARLEY HAS FAILED TO BARE INCOME

Governor Puts Official on Stand, Declares Him Bound To 'Explain' $288,000

BULLETIN.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The two-day hearing before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on Sheriff Thomas M. Farley's fitness to hold office wound up this afternoon and the Governor reserved decision.

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 17. —Bluntly declaring he did not believe that Sheriff Thomas M. Farley had given a "complete and full explanation" of his huge bank deposits, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt called the Tammany leader to the stand this afternoon and subjected him to a scorching cross-examination.

Farley is on trial before Roosevelt on the charges preferred by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter committee, in demanding his removal for "unfitness."

Sheriff Farley's "tin box" was under examination when the Governor suddenly halted the proceedings to personally grill Farley about his income and bank deposits. The Governor declared:

"I am certain that where a public official is under investigation and it appears that his bank deposits greatly exceed his salary, he owes it as a duty to explain the sources of his deposits."

DECEIT HINTED

Looking directly at Farley, Roosevelt added:

"I have listened carefully and I still do not believe a complete and full explanation has been made by the Sheriff of his bank deposits."

After pointing out that Farley's salary as Sheriff totaled $69,000, the Governor said:

"That leaves $288,000 for which the Sheriff should make explanation."

Then Roosevelt called Farley to the stand and started to question him about his income tax since 1925. The governor said:

"Tell me in your own way about this, sheriff."

When Farley arose, the governor told him he could be seated, but the sheriff continued to remain standing.

TELLS OF WEALTH

Farley told the Governor he was "worth from $75,000 to $100,000 in 1922." He said:

"Why, Sheriff, you really and paid me $10,000 yesterday which I loaned him back in 1929."

ROOSEVELT INTERRUPTED

"You owe it to the state to give a real explanation of where you got your money.

"Why, sheriff, you really ought to account for about $500,000, instead of $287,000."

Farley demanded:

"What do you mean?"

"Just what I said."

Farley continued:

"It's hard to explain it in detail when I haven't the records before me. I never have taken a dishonest dollar in my life. It's all money I saved."

ROOSEVELT PERSISTENT.

The Governor persisted:

"But how could you save that much on your salary? There is a very large sum here that can't be explained, simply as that of cashing checks for friends, or loans."

Farley answered:

"Why, when you take a $1,000 loan and deposit it and redeposit it, it doesn't take long to run up into real money. I was paid back $10,000 yesterday right in this chamber."

At this point, Farley's counsel, Siegfried Hartman, came to the Sheriff's defense. He said:

"I don't see how it is humanly possible for Farley to give you a more complete explanation of his accounts than he has done."

The Governor asked:

"Don't you keep a check book, Sheriff?"

"I don't keep any record of my checks."

Roosevelt insisted:

"I want to find out the names of people you loaned all this money to. If I loaned $10,000 to anyone, I would remember it."

Farley concluded:

"Well, I loaned so much that I can't remember it all."

DEVICE MEASURES, WEIGHS SMOKE-LADEN ATMOSPHERE OVER CITY

Scientists Seek To Eliminate Pollution

The air Pittsburghers breathe daily is now being measured and weighed.

Atop the City-County Building, the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research has installed, among others, an electrical instrument, bearing the scientific name of capnometer.

CAPNOMETER'S RECORD

Three thousand feet away, on the roof of the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, there is a 1,000-watt lamp, its rays focused upon the capnometer. As the smoke, soot and dust-laden air passes through the rays of light, its variations—varying according to the amount of pollution—are recorded graphically by means of two photo-electric cells, the heart of the capnometer.

From these recordings Mellon Institute hopes to compile additional data as to the causes of pollution of the air above Pittsburgh and speed the day when the causes can be eliminated, according to H. B. Meller, director of the Bureau of Smoke Regulation and head of the Institute's investigation.

THE CAPNOMETER DOING ITS WORK ON ROOF AT CITY HALL

As an illustration of the sensitivity of the capnometer Meller pointed out that the arrival of a train on the Panhandle Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad is recorded with a decided variation on the chart.

Heavy Fogs Show Variations on Chart

Fog, laden with moisture and carrying a large amount of pollution, also causes decided variations in the recordings.

The experiments, a part of a series now in the third year, has occasioned numerous inquiries to Pittsburgh newspaper offices as to the causes of the bright rays of light spanning downtown Pittsburgh.

Meller said:

"Mellon Institute feels by the series of experiments an accurate idea of the amount of solids in the air may be obtained. Experiments in the past have been made in given areas for given periods of time, but owing to the very rapid changes in atmospheric conditions, the results have not been satisfactory.

"Using the capnometer, designed and constructed by engineers of Mellon Institute in co-operation with engineers of the Westinghouse companies and Duquesne Light Company, a continuous record, over a definite period of time, may be had.

"The Institute plans the establishment of a central recording station with rays of light coming from the various points of the compass weighing the air for the entire city. The results will be average and as accurate as it is possible to obtain."

VOTE MACHINE PARTS THEFT CURB ASKED

Devices Returned Unfit For Use; Barr Would Hold Up Pay of Election Officers

Election Board officials who turn in voting machines with parts missing will have their pay held up if County Commissioner C. M. Barr has his way.

John W. Vickerman, Director of the Election Department, asked Commissioners yesterday to authorize the purchase of various parts of machines that were missing when the machines were returned from the polling places last November. He said they were indispensable if the machines were to be made ready for use again.

Chairman C. C. McGovern observed that many parts of machines, such as electric cords, might tempt some persons to take them home for domestic use. He said:

"Did you get all the machines back?"

Vickerman replied:

"All but one that got smashed when a delivery truck collided."

On motion of Barr, it was decided to advertise for the purchase of new parts and to have Vickerman request Controller R. C. Woodside and Treasurer Robert S. Cain co-operate in withholding pay of Election Board officers until a clear receipt showing no missing parts had been issued by the election department.

The Commissioners were advised that township school boards were demanding rent from the county for the use of school houses as voting places. McGovern said:

"Well, we won't pay if I can stop it. The people all feel that school houses are the proper places for voting. If the boards expect us to discontinue the use of a school they can try to get 10 of their constituents to sign petitions for the removal, but I think they can't get the 10 signers."

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—A report of a robbery at the home of Mrs. Margaret Talmadge, mother of the film actresses, Norma, Constance and Natalie Talmadge, led to the arrest of Mrs. Talmadge's butler, Marcelino Sandon, 28.

Several hours after Mrs. Talmadge told police her home had been ransacked in her absence Monday night, authorities had not placed a definite valuation on the loot. Friends estimated the value from $20,000 to $100,000.

ONE-ARM DRIVE AIDS DIVORCE

Describing alleged intoxicated capers of her husband, including, she claims, an attempt to jump out the window of a Paris hotel, Mrs. Harriett Friday Lawson, 31, of 1405 Shady avenue, charged Harold B. Lawson, 32, with cruelty, and was granted a divorce by Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court.

They were married April 21, 1920, and have five children.

Soon after their marriage he was involved in an automobile accident and an actress riding with him testified he drove with one hand, his other arm being around her, and obtained a judgment of $2,500 damages, Mrs. Lawson related.

She charged Lawson came intoxicated to the Pittsburgh Country Club at a birthday dinner for her in 1929 and was ejected because of his abusive language. She testified he beat her and that she has not seen him since he left her September 8. They lived in the Cathedral Mansions.

MORGUE DEATH CHARGE DENIED

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Basing its decision upon the opinion of the coroner's medical commission, a coroner's jury has returned a verdict that Mrs. Esther Falk, 32, was dead from exposure when brought to the city morgue last Friday.

The decision was at variance with the statement of Dr. Edward L. Miloslavich, noted pathologist, who said he detected signs of life in the body five hours later as he prepared for an autopsy.

The verdict, returned last night, was regarded by authorities as exonerating police and Coroner's officials censured for reputed neglect in failing to obtain a speedy medical examination for Mrs. Falk. Dr. David Mehigan, police surgeon, was suspended and faces the police and fire commission on charges of neglect of duty in connection with the case.

RITES PLANNED FOR MRS. FISKE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Deferring to her wishes, funeral rites for Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, favorite of the American stage for three generations, will be simple.

Her husband, Harrison Grey Fiske, said today he would follow her desire that there be no religious ceremony recited for her and that her body be cremated. The final rites will be held tomorrow at Fresh Pond crematory.

Mrs. Fiske wrote in a letter to her husband:

"I do not want any ceremony after death. I do not want a public exposition of my body. I never sought publicity in my life and I do not desire it in death."

Mrs. Fiske died at Hollis at the age of 66, following an illness that attacked her last year in Chicago.

2,000 WILL GET EMERGENCY FUND JOBS

Needy Men to Begin Work Monday Under $500,000 Appropriated by County

Unemployed men will be put to work, beginning next Monday, by the Allegheny County Emergency Association until the total number will be approximately 2,000 and their pay will be provided by the $500,000 appropriated a few weeks ago by the County Commissioners.

A definite plan completed at a meeting yesterday of the Commissioners and representatives of the association provides for the placing next week of the greatest number of men that can be accommodated practically on the projects now under the supervision of the emergency association.

42 TOWNS AIDED

Association officials told the commissioners that emergency work was under way in 42 of the county's municipalities including third class cities boroughs and townships. The municipalities are furnishing the materials and the association is providing the men and their pay.

Out of the original fund the association had for that work there remains $213,000. The latest plan is to release the money so that it may be used in providing food and other necessities to the needy and to apply an equal amount from the $500,000 the Commissioners have appropriated to complete the projects under way by the association in the 42 municipalities.

Within 10 days the emergency association is to organize an additional force of unemployed who will be placed at work on necessary improvements on county roads and will work under the supervision of county engineers. The plan provides that the residents of a community will be given the work on roads in their neighborhood.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by County Commissioners C. C. McGovern, W. D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr, Director J. J. Chester of the County Highway Department, W. H. Kreiling, county engineer, and Phillip Matthews and John Beatty, of the emergency association.

Co-operation Urged In Fighting Fires

Co-operation between the layman and the Fire Department is a vital factor in preventing and controlling fires and brings about lower fire insurance rates, George J. Richardson, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Fire Fighters, Washington, told the 400 members of the Chamber of Commerce "Fire School" last night.

No matter how efficient a fire department, Richardson declared, it cannot contend with any degree of success that is reflected in lower insurance rates against a condition of carelessness and negligence on the part of the public.

Bechtel's automobile in which he had escorted a young woman to her home from a meeting of church workers, was found later the same day in West Philadelphia.

DEMOCRAT WINS IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—(AP)—After 17 years of a Republican regime, Cleveland today flew a Democratic flag over the door of its highest and most powerful office.

Although Republicans won a majority of its Council seats in November, Cleveland yesterday elected a Democrat for Mayor.

The new Mayor will be Ray T. Miller, a former Notre Dame football player, who was opposed by former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, choice of the Republicans.

Miller, the present Cuyahoga County prosecutor, a 38-year-old ex-doughboy, received 102,632 votes to Morgan's 94,929.

It was one of the greatest outpourings of votes in the city's history, and was considered a serious defeat for the local political machine of Maurice Maschke, Republican national committeeman, as in Cleveland the Mayor has powers unusually wide.

8 RISK LIFE TO SAVE MINER

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Eight of the best miners of Silver Creek colliery were risking death today to save Joseph Batory, entombed 17 hours under a slide of coal at Graytown, three miles from this city.

Batory's head was uncovered at 9:30 this morning and he conversed with his rescuers as they worked.

Efforts to dislodge him by moving his body from the shoulders had to be abandoned because of danger to the rescue squad and because Batory said the pain to his legs was unbearable.

Batory is reported to have gone to the mine with four companions last night to "bootleg" coal for their families.

Mills, Congressmen Study Sales Tax

WASH'GTON, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Another step toward adoption of a selective manufacturers' sales tax was taken today when Secretary of the Treasury Mills met with a House Ways and Means sub-committee to draft a sales tax plan.

Senate to Debate Injunction Ban

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The Senate last night agreed to take up next Tuesday the Norris bill to restrict the use of federal injunctions in labor disputes.

OPPOSES HOME LOAN BANK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—William H. Kingsley, vice president of the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, today opposed the administration home loan bank bill on the grounds there was no immediate need for new homes.

He told a Senate Banking Sub-Committee considering the bill that it also would "wind up with the government owning a great deal of real estate through mortgage foreclosures" and that its purpose already was embraced in the reconstruction act. He said:

"There is an over-supply of modern homes purchasable at lower figures and on easier terms than could be applied to new houses. Hence the latter would deflate and further lower values, thus lessening security under mortgages now in good standing and probably would necessitate additional foreclosures."

Kingsley agreed there should be some agency created to permit home mortgages to be used as collateral for loans, but objected to having it permanent.

GOES ON PARTY, GEMS VANISH

North Side police today arrested two men and three women with whom Howard K. Engle, 304 Sandusky street, went on a party last night.

This morning, Engle said, a diamond ring, two diamond pins and a watch belonging to him were missing.

Investigating police arrested Wilson Stett, 35, of 432 Jefferson street, Bellevue. They said Stett admitted taking one of the rings, valued at $800, and the watch, which were found in his possession.

The others arrested, on suspicious person charges, were Mr. and Mrs. John Popa, of 822 Lovett way, in whose home the party, Engle said, was held, and Mrs. Helen Feito, 21, and Mrs. Blanche Sadoski, 22, roomers there.

All four denied any part in the thefts.

EX-COUNCILMAN HANGS SELF

L. R. Mechling, Wilkinsburg politician and defeated candidate for re-election to Borough Council, ended his life last night in the cellar of his home, 418 Third street, according to a Coroner's report.

Mr. Mechling

His son Thomas found Mechling's body suspended by a clothes line from a joist in the basement, the report said.

Mechling, after serving as Wilkinsburg councilman for 12 years, was defeated at the last election. He also served one term as delinquent tax collector.

Aside from politics, Mechling was a heating contractor, heading the Modern Heating Company, Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg. Worry over business conditions were responsible for his action, the Coroner's report said.

He leaves his widow and four sons.

Convict Indicted In Killing Girl

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—A Center County grand jury in 30 minutes yesterday indicted Fred Collins, Negro, for murder in the killing January 13 of Elizabeth Hickok, daughter of Dr. Asa L. Hickok, Rockview Penitentiary physician.

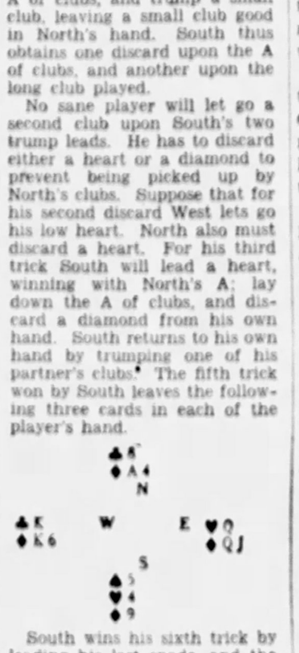
Collins, prison officials said, confessed attacking the girl and slashing her throat with a knife.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

A Tough Problem

The eight-card problem was submitted for solution to the Knickerbocker Whist Club, by a lady living in Binghamton.



South is in the lead. Spades are trumps. N and S are to win all eight tricks against any defense.

Evidently South's hand is worth just four trump tricks, and as clearly North's cards are worth three tricks for his three aces. The only possible way to pick up the eighth trick is by means of a double squeeze. This means that discards must be forced from both East and West, to oblige one or the other to unguard a suit, thus enabling the declarer to win a trick with a low card of one of the three side suits.

To force a discard from West, so as to know how to play for the squeeze, lead one of South's spades. West may discard either a heart, diamond or club. To make certain that the problem can be solved against any defense, by turns the hand must be played with each of those discards.

First suppose that West discards a club; North must make the same discard. Against the club discard another spade must be led. If West lets go another club the solver's troubles are all over. South can lead a card of either red suit; lay down North's A of clubs, and trump a small club, leaving a small club good in North's hand. South thus obtains one discard upon the A of clubs, and another upon the long club played.

No sane player will let go a second club upon South's two trump leads. He has to discard either a heart or a diamond to prevent being picked up by North's clubs. Suppose that for his second discard West lets go his low heart. North also must discard a heart. For his third trick South will lead a heart, winning with North's A; lay down the A of clubs, and discard a diamond from his own hand. South returns to his own hand by trumping one of his partner's clubs. The fifth trick won by South leaves the following three cards in each of the player's hand.

South wins his sixth trick by leading his last spade, and the three players must discard. Obviously West must hold his K of clubs, or North's 8 becomes good. Any player would keep his club and let go his low diamond. North lets go from the suit that West protects; when West keeps his club, North discards his club. East also is squeezed. If he lets go his winning heart, South's small heart becomes good. In case East discards one of his two diamonds, both of North's diamonds will win. It makes no difference what East discards. South must win all eight tricks.

If West's first discard is either a heart or a diamond, instead of a club, proceed as if he had first discarded a club and then a red card.

Sentenced 3 Months For Gas Tax Evasion

A sentence of three months in the workhouse was given J. E. Monagle, of Cape May avenue, when he pleaded guilty in Criminal Court before Judge Elder W. Marshall to having failed to pay $152 gasoline tax to the state during June, 1931.

Mathilda Hinkel, Halsey avenue, Forest Hills, pleaded guilty to evasion of $750 of tax during March, 1930. Judge Marshall deferred sentence for 30 days when she asked this amount of time in which to make restitution. Informations were made in both cases by Inspector W. D. Timblin, of the State Department of Revenue, with district offices in the Grant Building.

ROBBERS LOOT FOUR STORES

Four stores were robbed during the night by thieves who jimmied rear doors to gain entrance, police were told this morning.

Clothing valued at $650 were taken from the Model Clothing Company, 6225 Frankstown avenue. The robbers are believed to have used a truck to carry away their loot, police said.

Groceries were taken from the Peteis grocery store, 4517 Liberty avenue. The loss was estimated at $67.

Equipment, including a meat slicer and a coffee urn and valued at $100, was stolen from Howard Bell's confectionery, 1515 Allegheny avenue.

The grocery of S. Stugeon, North Braddock avenue, was looted of $35 worth of canned goods and other foodstuffs.

WHEN TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

Teething time brings its troubles! For so often teeth cut through the tender gums in hot weather, when there is danger of digestive upsets anyway.

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable, is to see that waste matter is carried off promptly and regularly.

For this, there's nothing like Castoria. It is made specially for the delicate needs of babies and children. It acts so gently, you can give it to young infants to relieve colic pains. Yet it is always effective—keeps older children well regulated.

Castoria is a harmless vegetable preparation; it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

When your baby is fretful and feverish with teething or a stomach disturbance, give a cleansing dose of Castoria to make him comfortable and happy. Children like the taste of genuine Castoria—never object to taking it. Be sure you get it with the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Does the Stage Rob a Girl Of Respectability?

Can a girl prance in the chorus and still be respectable and respected?

Or is she bound to be outside the pale of decency just because she's "on the stage"?

That's Marilou's problem—and many platinum blonde and burnished burnette listeners will listen in.

"Dear Sally

"As the old saying goes 'Monkey sees monkey does' so after reading about everybody else's hard luck in your column here I am with mine. I'm in desperate need of advice and you seem to be my only source. So here I am.

WARNED BY FRIEND

"When I was 10 my dad died leaving mom and me alone in the world. I had taken dancing so through a local movie house I got a job with a vaudeville team. That was eight years ago, and during that time mother was taken seriously ill and is now in a hospital. I suppose you'll think that, being on the stage, I've lost all my little girl ideas, but I haven't. I was taught to lead a good, clean, honest life, and that seems to be one place where the trouble comes in.

"Whenever I'm invited anywhere the fellows seem to think I'm a high flyer just because I'm on the stage, and they act disappointed when they find I'm not. And, believe it or not, I'll be 18 soon, and have yet to smoke my first cigaret. I may act a little older than the average 18-year-old girl, but that is because I've had to face the hardships of life so young.

"Well, here is another angle of my trouble. Just a few weeks ago I had an offer to get in with a swell chorus. The idea is whether to take it or leave it. If I have my way I'll take. But there is a gentleman friend of mother's who has taken quite an interest in me.

"The other day we had a heart-to-heart talk, and he wants me to give up my stage work and find a position 'where there won't be so many temptations,' because, he says, no matter how good a life I lead, or no matter how hard I try to lead a good life, there will always be temptations, and I will always be marked as a chorus girl."

TEMPTATION EVERYWHERE

"Now, that's his side of the story, and here is mine. I think there are temptations in every walk of life, and having worked hard for years, why turn my chance down? I'll admit that a show girl has to be on the lookout against temptations, and has to face facts, but what about the stenographer, the telephone girl, the waitress? I think I can lead a good life in the show world, and it is the only place where I am happy.

"Well, now, you've heard both sides, what do you think? Shall I go on with the show? Or shall I give it up because some narrow-minded people think that once a chorus girl, you can never hold your head up, and you haven't any regard for your reputation? I am depending on you. MARILOU."

Can a chorus girl be decent? She certainly can, youngster. Can she make other people respect her decency? She can do that, too. And she won't have any harder fight than any other working girl.

CONDITIONS CHANGED

Temptations are where you find them and you can find them anywhere if you're on the prowl. As a matter of fact, you can raise 57 varieties of Cain right in the guarded home parlor, if such is your desire. And if it isn't, you can keep yourself as clean on the stage as in any other job.

Nor will the world hold your work against you, Marilou. Once the chorus girl was a branded female—willy nilly. Now we're wiser, more used to the unprotected girl. And the great ladies of the stage—Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore, Ellen Terry—have broken down the taboo that lay upon their little sisters. So, though you'll have to face public prejudice on the stage as you would in any other career, you can keep your name untarnished if you wish. Life is what you make it, kid, no matter where you live it.

However, others may not agree with my opinion. They may say that your mother's friend was right in advising you against the stage. So here goes for a general talky.

Will or won't Marilou make a mess of her life if she goes into the chorus?

Are there more temptations behind the footlights than there are on the switchboard or in the bookkeeping department? Will folks necessarily take it for granted that she's a Hot Sketch just because she twinkles in the spot light?

What's your opinion?

Beware of Superior Acting Persons Who Talk Big, Fay King Warns

By FAY KING

It is never safe to put too much faith in appearance and addresses, for "phonies" excel in these.

The first lesson learned by those who would live by their wits is the influence of appearance and the "guarantee" of a smart address. They get by beautifully on these and bluff.

A reliable business reputation and a sound social position need never be over-acted or over-dressed.

Be cautious of those superior acting persons who talk so big and seem to know only the famous, the very rich, and the most important persons.

At best they will prove to be only fringe-ites, dependent upon the reflected glory of these pretended "friends" to make them seem important.

At worst they are often outright swindlers.

Dicky Agrees to Help With the Script

I lost no time in confirming the vague impression that I gathered from Dicky's eyes and his observation that changing the speeches of Vickers "ought not to be hard." If he were in the mood that I hoped was his, I could manage to revise my third act without either calling upon Lillian for aid or wounding her feelings by refusing her help.

With instinctive feminine willness, I did not make my appeal a direct one.

"It will be hard for me to make those changes," I said. "Do you—are you—going to be terribly busy for the rest of the afternoon and this evening?"

"Oh, come out into the open, Pocahontas," Dicky said, his eyes dancing mischievously. "What is it you're driving at."

"In other words."—I grinned at him, "putting up my paws like a nice little doggie and begging prettily."

"We-ll!" Dicky drawled, "I wouldn't go quite that far, but I do believe in people being explicit."

"'Explicit' is the word," I said gaily, my spirits rising at the prospect of solving my problem. "Will you help me make the changes Mr. Veritzen wishes?"

Dicky's face was suddenly that of a pleased boy's and his eyes were bright with interest.

"Will I?" he said eagerly. "Just watch me! I am most honored, milady, to have you consider me worthy to be your collaborator—no, assistant would be a better word."

"Oh, collaborator is the only word," I said firmly. "You don't know how relieved and thankful I am, Dicky. Lillian offered to help with the revision, but I have a special reason for not wanting her."

"What is it?" Dicky demanded sharply. "Oh."—as if enlightenment had just come to him. "She typed all that stuff from your dictation, didn't she? Then she must have seen that Vickers——"

His voice trailed off into silence and I hastened to refute the conjecture which I knew was in his mind.

"But she didn't," I exclaimed. "She got a general idea of the act, enough to say some very nice things about it, but she had no idea——"

It was my own turn to stop confusedly.

Dicky finished the sentence with a malicious little grin at me.

"That I was the 'model from which you drew Vickers."

"Dicky!" I protested excitedly. "You know I never did—you know how I——"

"Dreamed it in a nightmare," Dicky finished. "Yes, I rather agree with old Phil's diagnosis. But, look here, you're sure Lil didn't see any resemblance to me in Vickers?"

"Positive," I said. "The surest proof of that is that she said nothing about it. She's too good a friend of both of us to let anything like that slip in without trying to stop it."

"Yes, I imagine old Lil would turn the light to red if she had seen what I did, but what about our great producer?"

There was an anxious note in Dicky's voice which I hastened to relieve.

"He said, 'that the character could be safely worshiped,' because 'he is like nothing that is in Heaven above, or on the earth beneath, or the water under the earth!'"

Dicky stared at me for a moment, then laughed shortly.

"Maybe I'm all wet myself," he said, "imagining things where none exist."

"I hope you are," I said briskly, although I knew only too well that he had been right. I had made Vickers a caricature of Dicky, although I had done it subconsciously.

"But that doesn't alter the fact," I went on, "that Mr. Veritzen wishes all those speechs cut out and new ones substituted."

"How many pages of your act will have to be rewritten in order to make those changes?" Dicky asked practically.

I made a hasty mental calculation.

"Four—perhaps five," I said.

"Then," Dicky hesitated, "if we make that substitution we can throw the old copy away, can't we, before Lil lamps it again?"

"Of course," I assented. "That's why I am so anxious that you help me. I'm going to stretch the truth a bit and tell Lil that you offered to help me make the revision for which Veritzen has asked, and that"—I hesitated, flushing.

"That you didn't want to hurt my tender young feelings, I suppose," Dicky said with a broad grin. "Go as far as you like, old dear. I'm game for all the tarradiddles in the world. Has anyone except Lil and Veritzen seen this act?"

"Nobody but you, Dicky," I said.

"Then we'll be safe!" Dicky exclaimed. "Lord, you don't know how relieved I am. And it wasn't all because I objected to my caricature, but it wouldn't have been very nice for you if anybody got next. Nobody would have believed it was subconscious dope, you know, and putting a perfectly good husband in the pillory like that isn't one of the things a perfect lady would be expected to do."

I turned on him, panic stricken at something I heard—or imagined—in his voice.

"But, Dicky," I pleaded, "you said you believed I wrote that subconsciously. You still think so, don't you?"

Early Discovery Wise in High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is one of the common ailments complained of in modern times. It was unrecognized by the old-time practitioner. Even now it may not be discovered until it has left its damaging effect upon the body.

Dr. Copeland

Frequently I am asked what the blood pressure should be at different ages. A sort of "rule of thumb" for determining the normal blood pressure is to add 100 to the age. This will give the approximate, but, of course, not wholly accurate answer.

The pressure found in a healthy person between 20 and 30 years of age varies between 100 and 125. As we grow older the blood pressure rises. This is due to certain changes which take place in the walls of the blood vessels. The small arteries become hard and lose their elasticity.

Since the health of the arteries greatly influences the blood pressure, it is often said that "a man is as old as his arteries." Some persons of a given age show a tendency toward higher blood pressure than others. Every case must be considered on its individual merits.

Sometimes elevation of the pressure is for brief periods only. A steady high blood pressure is dangerous. It forces the heart to do extra work. This additional burden long carried weakens the heart and may damage that organ. It becomes enlarged and eventually is unable to function.

The damage is not to the heart alone. It may affect the kidneys. Bright's disease is often associated with high blood pressure. The physician will make regular urine examinations in cases of persistent high blood pressure.

Persons such as we are describing require rest and careful attention. Excitement and severe exertion should be avoided. The diet should be regulated. Excesses are always dangerous, but if the blood pressure is high it is important to avoid eating too much meat, meat soups, tea, coffee, alcohol and condiments.

Warm baths are beneficial, but hot baths are harmful. A person who suffers from high blood pressure should have a daily elimination. Constipation is dangerous, for it permits poisons to collect in the body.

The blood pressure of every person over 40 years of age should be taken at least once a year. If it is too high, early discovery will permit much to be done which will prevent damaging effects on the heart and kidneys.

Bear in mind that the individual element enters into the matter. We are not alike, and what is above the average for one may not be abnormal after all. It is foolish to worry over it.

Household Hints

Always keep one or two attractive coat hangers handy for the visitor. Her coat will then stay in press all the time she is with you and at the same time you will not have outside dust brought in on your clean bedspreads.

In making baby's layette have the hems of the little dresses hemstitched. Then when the time for shortening comes along they can be cut through the hemstitching and a dress with a dainty picoted edge is on hand. If desired, narrow lace may be sewn on this edge.

Rust in ovens is due mostly to moisture that develops from baking or broiling. If the oven door is kept open for 20 minutes after use the moisture will evaporate and remove the cause of rust.

Give Them 'the Idea'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the proprietor of a business catering only to physicians. Out of my clientele of 75 doctors, one or two of these doctors, when calling me on the telephone for information, call me by my first name. I know these men only through business. Do you think that it is proper for them to call me by my first name or to refer to me by my first name? If you do not think so, will you please let me know how I can correct this in a business-like manner?

MISS C.

I feel the way you do about this, that it is unmannerly and presumptuous of these doctors to call you by your first name. How loud would be their complaint if the tables were turned and you did such an ill-bred thing to them!

When they call you on the telephone and address you by your first name, I suggest that you always say, "Yes, this is Miss Cosgrove speaking," or "Yes, Dr. McIntyre, this is Miss Cosgrove." And you might make the point very definite too when you have occasion to telephone to one of these doctors, by saying, "Dr. McIntyre, this is Miss Cosgrove." I'm sure that then it won't be long before they will "get the idea."

MOTHER OF 7—STILL YOUNG

The woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old.

Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use it often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down, or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need stimulating. Give it to the children instead of stronger laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

This way preserves the ELASTICITY*
. . that makes stockings fit and wear

DO YOU KNOW why new stockings fit with such alluring smoothness? Because each silk thread is elastic. Stretch it—it springs right back into shape.

But when elasticity is lost—the stretched threads can't spring back. Then you get wrinkly ankles—crooked seams. Runs start this way, too—the silk threads break, instead of giving, under strain.

That is why Lux is especially made to preserve elasticity—the secret of stocking fit and wear.

*The LUX Way

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity. Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens and fades silks. Lux has no harmful alkali.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze gentle suds through stockings, rinse well, shake and hang up.

LUX for stockings

2 minutes a day keeps them like new

GIBBONS THERE WHEN NEWS BREAKS

Outwits Rivals to Score Beat on Famine

Floyd Gibbons knows where news is going to break. How he always is on the spot where the big news is breaking is told in the following chapter of his life story.

By HENRY WALES
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(INS.)—Events moved rapidly in the decade after the war. Trouble broke out all over the map—all over Europe, and in Asia and Africa and the Near East.

Floyd Gibbons followed trouble everywhere. Occasionally he accompanied it, sometimes he even preceded it. He drove across France and Germany in an old Army automobile in 1920 to handle the Kapp putsch.

Several times he dashed across England and Ireland during the "Black and Tan" regime and the Sinn Fein troubles. He visited Upper Silesia during the Korfanty troubles, when Germans and Poles were trying to insure majorities in the forthcoming plebiscite.

The next year he was in Poland when the Warsaw government started its ill-fated drive to seize the Ukraine from Red Russia.

Cfime the Volga famine, and Gibbons was in Riga. The United States was preparing, under Herbert Hoover, to try to feed the starving population in Central Russia. Maxim Litvinov was the Soviet minister to Esthonia. Gibbons talked to him, convinced him of the need for publicity to speed American aid. The two rode into Moscow in the minister's private car attached to the international train.

Visits Starving

Floyd was one of a party who were taken to the stricken regions by the Communist authorities. The inspection trip was to last several weeks.

Gibbons saw enough starvation and misery in half that time to give him his copy. Saw the corpses of men, women and children, stripped naked—the survivors needed their ragged clothing and boots—saw the bodies piled into great funeral pyres and burned. It was impossible to dig graves to bury them in the frozen ground.

So Gibbons quit the official investigation party. He left them flat without warning—he wanted no rival correspondent to accompany him—and made his way alone and without credentials across Russia in Europe to Moscow. There a telegraph wire was open.

He scooped the world with that series, wrote out the whole story, and had it published before his confreres got back. He said afterward:

"What I saw of the conditions of a few hundred thousand people in a tour covering a couple of thousand miles was enough. I didn't need to see a couple of million more and travel all over the country to confirm the famine."

Saw Ruhr Occupied

He was in the Ruhr when the French and Belgians occupied the Westphalian industrial region militarily to try to force Berlin to pay reparations. He was in Rome for the coronation of Pope Pius XI, and narrowly escaped death when, riding in Borghese Park, he spurred his mount ahead to catch the runaway horse of a celebrated American movie star, also taking her morning canter.

Floyd covered the Red and Socialist uprising in Vienna, and the Carlist coup to restore the Hapsburg dynasty in Budapest, when the ex-emperor flew to Hungary.

He visited Rumania several times when the dying King Ferdinand's realm was beset by danger. Later he was present in Spain in the earlier unsuccessful attempts of the Republicans to force Alfonso to abdicate.

Then he undertook an African expedition, leading his own caravan straight across the Sahara Desert, from Algiers to Colomb-Bechar, thence to Timbuctoo, on the oxbow of the Niger. He traversed the dread waste zone, going from post to post of the French garrisons which dot the "bled."

He followed the caravan route by trailing the bleached bones of men and camels who had preceded him and who had been engulfed by thirst and hunger in the wilderness.

Loses 40 Pounds

His way took him across the Tanezrouft, "the country of thirst," and over the Hoggar range. He lost 40 pounds and grew a long red beard on that trip, but he obtained his lucky piece, which he always has carried since.

An aged native chief, a witch doctor, in Tammanrasset, in the heart of the Sahara, 6,000 feet up in the Hoggar Mountains, presented him with the curious object, about the size of an egg, apparently a petrified nut.

From Timbuctoo he went down the Niger to the Atlantic and thence proceeded to Cape Town at the southern extremity of the Dark Continent. He struck off to Australia and Singapore from there, and then continued on to China.

At Shanghai news of the Riff war against the French and Spaniards reached him. He was ordered to North Africa.

Two weeks later Gibbons was in Fez, in Morocco, where Gen. De Chambrun was preparing the French offensive in liaison with Gen. Primo di Rivera, the Madrid dictator, personally in command of the Spanish troops.

Goes With Troops

Gibbons accompanied the converging Franco-Spanish advance against the warlike Moors, saw their snipers pick off officers and shoot down low flying airplanes. He was there when Abd-el-Krim finally surrendered rather than sacrifice the last of his indomitable tribesmen.

He lived in Germany for months, getting first-hand information of Baron Richtofen, the "Red Knight of Germany," then passed a long period in England, checking up on the victims of the supreme ace of the war.

Then he came back to America. But not for long. Within a few months he was on an airplane expedition, flying over the Caribbean, visiting all the ports and all the islands, studying from the sky the living map of the next potential theater of a naval war for the United States. He used this information in his book, "The Red Napoleon."

Tomorrow the Sun-Telegraph will carry a concluding article on the life and activities of Floyd Gibbons.

FIREMEN BACK HEINZ IN RACE

Members of the Veteran Firemen's Association have indorsed the candidacy of John Heinz, president of the City Firemen's Protective Association, for the Republican nomination for member of the Legislature from the Sixth District.

In 1927 Heinz fought through the entire session of the Legislature for the referendum to increase policemen's and firemen's pay. The measure was vetoed by the Governor, but Heinz continued the fight until it was finally passed in the following session and later approved by the people.

Heinz declared he favors permanent registration of voters and clean elections, "reasonable" public utilities' rates and retention by Pittsburgh of a third of the approximately $1,500,000 paid by city residents for automobile licenses.

Cost Accountants Hear Expert Tonight

LANCIA GUILTY IN DOPE SALE

James Lancia, of Bedford avenue, prominent politically in the Hill district; Joseph Locastro, of Bustrick way, and Salvatore Corsella, of Suismon street, were convicted yesterday in Federal Court for selling morphine, in a trial before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

The same defendants were convicted two weeks ago on a charge of conspiring to violate the government narcotic laws. The second case was heard before Judge Nelson McVicar. In the first case the defendants have an appeal pending for a new trial.

In the prosecution at each trial the government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz.

PATRONAGE JOB PLEA DENIED

County Commissioners refused yesterday to comply with a request from the County Tax Board to employ as watchmen two men who acted as chairmen in their bailiwicks for "Independent" candidates in the last election. Chairman C. C. McGovern said:

"That's a good political letter but I move it be laid on the table. And I think we should tell Chief Clerk W. T. Reese not to read any more like it."

The letter, submitted by W. H. Hodgkinson, of the Tax Board, with the approval of Board Director George E. Meyers, stated that in view of changes being made in the transcribing room and real estate division of the office, records were accessible and subject to tampering or theft.

It was suggested that two watchmen at $150 a month be appointed, each to work a separate shift daily between 4 p. m. and 9 a. m. The letter recommended Charles Beebe, independent chairman of Braddock, and Oliver Schlarm, independent chairman of Plum Township, as "extremely deserving, competent and needful of immediate employment."

SATIRE :-: Movies Talk About Themselves :-: AMUSEMENTS :-: News and Gossip That Concerns the Stage

'Truth About Hollywood' May Be Only Half True, But Then—

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.

Several columns ago, I wrote that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will satirize studio life in "It Has To Be Big." Now comes R-K-O with the announcement that Helen Twelvetrees will be featured in a film to be called "The Truth About Hollywood."

Happily, David Selznick has chosen a competent person to write the story. I mean Adela Rogers Hyland. Adela has been a part of the film colony for a long time and always writes of it with veracity but with sympathy. Unlike some authors her familiarity with Hollywood hasn't bred contempt. She still keeps sight of the glamor which the film stars have for the great public.

Helen Twelvetrees

For this reason I believe we will be seeing Miss Twelvetrees one of these days in a picture that really will contain some of the truth about Hollywood. And if it isn't the whole truth, who will complain? Maybe the microscope brigade. But let 'em.

THE SNOOTY SWEDE

Los Angeles fans give Greta Garbo the same rush as they did in New York, and get the same cordial reception. The other evening La Garbo attend the dance concert of Mary Wigman. She wore a long, mannish black coat with a muffler around her neck and a soft black felt hat down over her eyes. Accompanied by a tall, middle-aged blonde woman, she entered the auditorium, registered dissatisfaction over her seats and finally paid a goggle-eyed couple $10 to exchange with her. Whether it was through the flurry of this little episode or through a sort of second sight, the audience gradually became aware of the Garbo presence. Necks craned on all sides. Then, when the elusive Swede tarried too long on the curtain's fall, they swarmed. But they hadn't counted on Greta's companion. Pushing through the crowd, the tall blonde woman placed her arm around the Garbo shoulder and propelled the embattled Swede to the sidewalk. There the two ducked into a motor and glided away.

Greta Garbo

THE JOVIAL SWEDE

An air-mail letter comes from El Brendel, who is in Philadelphia.

"Have been trying to write you for weeks," he said, "but I'm always on next.

"These days, there's no excuse for a bad act. Five shows a day give you plenty of practice. You don't even have to be clever—just healthy.

HERE'S GOSSIP

Though gracious when trapped, George Arliss is almost as crowd-shy as Garbo. At the recent premiere of his picture, the English actor spent the evening in the office of the manager of the theater and, when the time came to appear on the stage, balked at walking down the aisle. The engineer of the building had to lead him up through the boiler room. . . . Lupe Velez can't laugh. Listen for yourself, when you see her on the screen. . . . The two guards who have been patrolling Ann Harding's yard since the threatened kidnaping of her child are tough babies to pass. Last week they chased a couple of fan magazine sketch artists right down the hill. . . . That broker-husband of Adrienne Ames sent her a 12-cylindered automobile for a valentine present. . . . Some sooty fan writes Boris Karloff: "Dear Monster: Please send me a picture of Slim Summerville." . . . And this especially to Mary A. Kurkowski, of New Eagle, Pa.—As much as I would like to, I can't send you 3x6 pictures of all the stars in Hollywood. My word! . . . Tay Garnett, who's in New York by now, will very likely direct "Madison Square Garden" for Charles Rogers. . . . The bachelor party for John Considine was, for one of those things, quite a well-behaved affair.

Comedian

Joe Cook, the comedian, will open a week's engagement on the Penn stage Friday.

Premiere

George Arliss will come to the Warner screen Thursday night in the Pennsylvania premiere of his new film, "The Man Who Played God."

Arliss Film Premiere Tomorrow Night

Sound motion pictures will be taken at the Warner tomorrow evening of the Pennsylvania premiere of the George Arliss picture, "The Man Who Played God." They will be shown in Warner theaters in Pittsburgh. Among those who have been invited are Gov. Pinchot and other state, city and county officials. The Warner will be closed during the daytime tomorrow, reopen at 7:45 o'clock in the evening. From a direct radio line in the lobby stage artists, officials, society members and dramatic critics of the Pittsburgh newspapers will be heard on the air.

Plays, Players and By-Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Alvin box-officers will be ready tomorrow to deal the pastebords for the sitters in "The School for Scandal," which Ethel Barrymore will bring to the Sixth street theater next week as the fifth offering of the Professional Players series. The school will be in session for six nights and two matinees, which will fall (as if you didn't know) on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. McKay Morris and Charles H. Croker-King are numbered among the faculty of this Sheridan educational institution.

Small Timer says the golf tenet always to keep your eye on the ball seems logical and fundamental, considering the game is of Scotch origin.

* * *

Florenz Ziegfeld wanted to be sure Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon, would know that his new show, "Hot-Cha," which comes to the Nixon next week, is a Washington hit, so he sent him the following telegram yesterday:

"Brown and Henderson musical comedy is sensational hit. Washington papers pronounce it even greater than 'Rio Rita.' Will Rogers says greatest musical entertainment he has ever witnessed. Rogers says you can quote him. Marjorie White, Lynn Overman, June Knight, Revva Reyes, Tito Coral, Veloz and Yolanda, the De Marcos and Eleanore Powell, all made individual hits, besides Bert Lahr and Buddy Rogers."

So there you have the cold facts hot-cha from the capital.

Small Timer says cynics who claim women have no sense of humor may be right, but, anyway, they've got very funny sense.

One of Manhattan's weekly mags features a coffee ad quoting Henry VIII on coffee . . . Shucks. Henry perished in 1547 and coffee wasn't introduced there till 1575.

The publisher of a plain-talking magazine is plotting to remove it from local stands in April because it loses out of town profits. . . . Grant Wondres and Gloria Claire are on fire . . . Warren O'Hara and Patricia Palmer are golden band window shopping . . . E. Dukoff breezily observes: "To air is human—to be sponsored is divine!" . . . The pass racket is worse than ever—dozens of spurious callers using the names of newspapermen for free ducats, with but one conviction in 100 . . . Cecil Strange's new book, "Free Lady," will spank the local liquorati . . . This is not his real name. The character Shaemus O'Toole is Jim Tully, Napoleon is Arthur Caesar, and the P. B. Jones, a publisher of books, is none other than T. R. Smith, the literary racket's handiest man.

Western Electric will absorb the so-caller magic lantern business eventually, according to the Better Opinions . . . A bill requiring publicly owned autos be painted a distinct color and limiting their use will be tossed into the Legislature . . . Cecil Beaton, of London, now here having a bit of a nip and a naughty, wears wing collars well that would make you look comical . . . Those bankers forced Mayor Walker to slice $300,000 off the roll, robbing the bluecoats of speed cars . . . Jack Pearl (not the actor) is weary of paying long distance charges, and will marry her . . . The Dick Keene-Adelaide Kaye Cupiding is too torrid . . . A famous alienist, who dooms men, is acting too goofy for the job . . . Geo. Mecker's mustache twitches only for Joan Carter-Waddell.

Since paragraph 1 was jotted down Otto Kahn's son, Gilbert, has found a new shadow—Sarah Jane, the dancer . . . The two big time radio chains will try to win back the good will of newspapermen with an unusual gesture soon . . . Conchita Supervia, the Spanish singer with the elegant appellation, is Mrs. Ben Rittenstein in private life . . . Wilda Bennett is traveling with Peppy deAlbrew in public places again . . . A salute to Esther Small, who used to spend $700,000 a year giving people a good time. She's now checking hats in one of the saloonlest places in the latter 50s. And she's still very pretty . . . When the new phones appear they will be different in color and shape, because the American Telandtel has completed an investigation proving that nearly all New Yorkers keep their phones in their bedrooms, whereas the present instrument was designed for desks.

The Tuesday Musical Club presented Walter Mills, baritone as guest artist yesterday afternoon in Soldiers' Memorial Hall. This singer arranged a very comprehensive program of oratorio, opera and classic songs and was well applauded for his singing.

Mr. Lissfelt

Mills has a very dignified stage presence and sings with excellent taste. His voice is high baritone, somewhat tremulous in the lower register, but pleasant and fluent in such music as Handel's "Ye Ve dant Hills." His diction is pure and he commands quite a variety of expression best when he is the restrained musician as in his Franz and Brahms lieder.

His fine reading of the Rachmaninoff called forth the Grelchaninoff "My Native Land." His "Water Boy" made one wish for more spirituals. Weingartner's "Liebesfeier" was welcome after a long absence from our programs.

Taking the place of its usual spring play for children, the Junior League this year is presenting a series of marionette performances with admission free to public school children under 12.

These performances are being given in centrally located public school auditoriums in the East Liberty, Herron Hill, Lawrenceville and Homewood districts on Saturday mornings. The series began January 30, and will continue until March 19.

The purpose of this children's theater work is to give suitable amusement and wholesome imaginative stimulation to the greatest number of children possible. So far there have been three performances of Bobby Jones His Voyages with over 2,000 children as an audience.

The productions have been written, staged and directed by Junior League members. And they made the puppets the stage and the sets, too.

Mrs. Alexander Vetter Wasson is chairman of the Junior League Children's Theater this year assisted by Mrs. Bertram S. Holme Jr. Youth Mary Blair Holmes is stage manager, Flora Boyd is in charge of the marionettes and Alice Rust and Barbara Ewing of properties. Betty Dunlap added by the Board of Public Education has scheduled the itinerary of the marionettes and Mrs. S. Clarke Reed Jr. is in charge of transportation and Mrs. Herbert A. Mayo of publicity.

In the cast of Bobby Jones—His Voyages are Mrs. Frederick G. Blackburn, Mrs. Reginald Quaile, Mrs. Paul Hayland, Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, Mrs. Francis H. McKnight, Mrs. W. Dudley Lexington, Mrs. George L. Craig Jr., Mrs. Stanley Adams and Mrs. John Berdan.

Taking parts in the second production, Goldilocks and the Three Bears, and in "Jack and the Beanstalk" are Betty Dunlap, Florence Carroll, Mrs. Paul Hayland, Mrs. Harold Kipp, Mrs. Edward K. Thompson, Mrs. C. J. Claus and Mrs. Ralph Perry.

Working On Sets

Of course the Stage and Play Society's second evening of plays this season attracted scores and scores of society folk to the Twentieth Century Club last night.

Society At Plays

Mrs. Edward J. House wearing a striking gown of coral taffeta, almost as supple as crepe, with gold embroidery, I saw chatting in one of the boxes with the Harry J. Millers.

In an adjacent box were Mrs. Douglas Stewart, her daughter, Mrs. George A. Kelly III, and Marjorie Kimball in black chiffon.

Mrs. B. F. Jones III chose a ruffled brown chiffon gown, over which she wore a mink coat. Mrs. J. O. Burgwin was a late arrival, and so were Margaret Mann and Mrs. A. Cameron Mann and Mrs. W. J. Powell in white satin.

Chatting together in the foyer were Mrs. Harvey Childs III in a blue and grey printed crepe suggestive of the approaching spring season, and Mrs. George C. Burgwin in buttercup yellow satin.

Choose Black

Mrs. A. Marshall Bell in raspberry lace and a black velvet and ermine wrap came with her daughter, Genevieve, in black satin.

Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacobs chose a dark red velvet gown with a cape of the same material bordered in mink.

Others I noticed among the arrivals were Mrs. Henry Oliver Evans, Mrs. William Zang, Neil Stewart Zang in blue satin, Mrs. James Verner Scaife, Mrs. George Pearson and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Vermorcken in black chiffon beaded with rhinestones.

Mrs. John H. Rickerson III chose a printed crepe frock and a long wrap of black velvet having a shawl collar of ermine and ermine at the elbows. And she carried a found ermine muff.

Katharine Frazer arrived with Kenneth MacFarlane in white satin and Mrs. John W. Lawrence was there wearing black velvet.

Mrs. Mortimer Millet was in red velvet and Mrs. Herbert DuPuy in black velvet, furred in ermine.

Dowried In Red

Mrs. A. C. Martin came from Greensburg for the plays and Mrs. George P. Bassett was there wearing blue crepe. Lucretia Billings a deb of the season wore Kelly green crepe and Elizabeth Jenkins who arrived with her mother, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, was in lipstick red crepe.

Others I recall seeing were Mrs. Francis Sellers Guthrie, Rebecca and Virginia Doyle, Rosamound Finch and Frances Fitzgerald in yellow satin.

Mrs. Reginald Quaile wore royal blue crepe with rhinestones for accent. Mary Carroll was in ruffled black velvet.

In Blue Crepe

Wilhelmina Balken in Nile green crepe and a brief jacket of cloth of gold and mink. Mrs. A. K. Oliver wore black chiffon.

Elliott Reed and Caroline Mitchell, Mrs. Isaac Biddle Thomas, Betty McCance, Mrs. E. P. Mellon II and Mrs. John L. McK. Yardley were among the last to arrive.

Also attending were Mrs. James I. Kay in blue lace, Mrs. Dudley Liggett in flowered lame and Mrs. Norman McCleod in blue crepe.

CHILD DENTAL CLINIC TO OPEN

Health Council Told of New Charity

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The establishment of a dental clinic for children referred to the clinic by social agencies was announced at a meeting of the Child Health Council held yesterday in Kaufmann's. The clinic will be maintained at a downtown location as an emergency relief measure under the joint auspices of the Odontological Society and the General Health Council. It probably will be opened next week.

Dr. E. G. Kuhlman of the Falk Clinic, describing himself as a pediatrician who aims to keep well children well, spoke on "Interplay of Health and Habits in Children." Not often, he said, is gross pathology found to be the cause of malnutrition, but the reverse is usually true and malnutrition is in most cases due to habits formed in youth.

After speaking of prenatal clinics and discussing instincts and heredity and evironment Dr. Kuhlman says he doesn't believe much in heredity except insofar as physical stature is concerned; he went on to talk of many other phases of his subject, among them diseases in early infancy. "It's impossible to inherit disease but it may be congenital," he said; and the preschool period, which he termed the "neglected period of life," he declared that most pathology is due to improper food habits.

Discusses Instincts

Other high lights in the intensely interesting and very quotable talk were: Regularity of habits is a mother's golden opportunity; every child who does not accept authority shows that there is something wrong with either him or his parents, and he develops "a miserable quota" of habits; a child owes a parent nothing until that parent has earned the right to something; the child who has learned give and take will usually have a good personality; whether sex education should come at the school age or earlier is a sociological question, although Dr. Kuhlman thinks the time for it has arrived when the child asks a question concerning sex; if you permit your children to sit at the tabe with you you should bring the conversation down to their level, remembering that they might have chosen other parents had they been given the opportunity; quarrels should never be allowed before a child and no child should ever be confronted with the necessity of making a choice between the rightfulness of its parents.

Charlotte Singer's Engagement Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the betrothal of Miss Charlotte Reel Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Singer, of Hamilton avenue, to Herman C. Ehrenwerth, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ehrenwerth, also of Pittsburgh.

Both Miss Singer and her fiance are graduates of the University of Pittsburgh and he is a member of Lambda Alpha Phi national legal fraternity. No date has been made known for the wedding.

Miss Lou Crawford and Miss Jane Crisman of Wilkinsburg gave a bridge luncheon Saturday to announce the engagement of Miss Betty Stumpenhorst to Eugene White, both of Wilkinsburg. An early summer wedding will terminate the betrothal.

Ruth Isabella Evans Weds Dr. Carl F. Benz

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Elsin Evans, of Carrick, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Isabelle Evans, to Dr. Carl Ferdinand Benz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benz, of Carrick, which was solemnized Monday evening in the Concord Presbyterian Church. Officiating was the Rev. J. Walter Watson, in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Lillian Demestichas was the maid of honor, and Dr. Robert Diess served as best man. Dr. and Mrs. Benz will make their home in Brentwood.

Entertain Visitor

Mrs. James Henry Greene, of South Bend, popular member of the Tuesday Musical and the College Club, is spending the week in Pittsburgh as the guest of Mrs. F. P. Rohrer, of Stone Gables, Churchill road. Seeing a list of Mrs. Greene's engagements during her visit, it would seem as if she were not to have one free minute. She will be guest of honor at the morning musicale which Mrs. Rohrer is giving tomorrow and is being entertained at a bridge luncheon today by Mrs. David Aiken Pilcairn and Mrs. T. C. Donovan. A breakfast at the College Club was given yesterday by the Composers' Club and tomorrow Jean McCrory Newman and Mrs. Kenneth Cunningham will be joint hostesses in honor of the visitor. A number of other informal affairs are being planned for her.

Lack of co-operation with the League of Nations, failure to ratify the World Court protocol and the power of militants on Capitol Hill were named as "gaps in the peace machinery" by Mrs. Florence Brewer Boeckel, of the National Council for the Prevention of War, when she addressed the local cause and cure of war committee yesterday in the Congress of Clubs. Peace should be a factor in the presidential campaign, and there should be a consistent movement to procure a national policy for peace, Mrs. Boeckel said.

She spoke at the afternoon session also, emphasizing the importance of educating children in peace-mindedness, and seeing that school books eliminate sentiments of hatred and revenge. A number of local women spoke according to the scheduled program, their talks dealing largely with the recent National Cause and Cure of War Conference.

Mrs. Howard A. Noble, Mrs. George Harwood, Mrs. Hanson Rose and Mrs. William F. Knox will be assistants to the chairman, Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton, when the music and arts committee of the Twentieth Century Club presents the Manhattan String Quartet tomorrow at the clubhouse. * * *

A sketch, entitled "A Day at the Little Red School House," and dancing will be the chief features of the Crescent Hill's Woman's Club's annual guest night, to which husbands of the members have been invited. It will be held Friday in the Community House in charge of the social committee, of which Mrs. P. F. Squier is chairman.

WEARABILITY CHARACTERIZES NEWEST GOWNS FOR EVENING

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 17.—The evening scene is going to be considerably embellished when the new evening gowns get into circulation. For the models now being shown are really attractive, with all kinds of new and novel touches that make the gown different and yet keep it from any hint of the bizarre. Wearability is the keynote of almost every frock at present. Frocks now do a much longer term of duty than was formerly the case, and this keeps the designer busy to create frocks that are different and are yet not too noticeably so. The present conditions and the difficulties they have created have been well met by the designers and frocks were never more attractive or more reasonably priced than now. And who knows when such a state of affairs will occur again. For usually a cut in price means a cut in style, workmanship and material. But not this time. You will find that your dress dollars will buy more value than ever before, and that, surely should be an inducement to buying this spring.

* * *

SHOWN IN THE DOUBLE sketch are two very good-looking evening frocks, both of them subtly different from the majority of frocks seen lately and both designed for early spring wear. The model at the left is by Mirande in white crepe romaine. The material is twisted into ropes to form the shoulder straps. These pass first around the back of the neck, then extend over the shoulders near the top of the arm and reach to the waistline in the center to meet the deep V line of the bodice. The entire skirt is composed of vertical panels seamed edge to edge, which widen into circular godets. In this way the skirt moulds the figure to a point just above the knees, then flares gradually to the edge, just reaching the instep.

* * *

THE RIGHT HAND figure is wearing an Ylieb model of vivid hyacinth crepe georgette. The fitted bodice is formed of diagonal insets and the decolletage, pointed in front, forms a deep U behind. Diagonal pieces, dipping to points at each side and again at the center front and back, form the body of the skirt. A circular ruffle ripples down each side from the center front and terminates in the folds of the two-tiered flounces below.

Nothing could make dishwashing a pleasure

BUT see how much easier it is with the New Oxydol

• Three times a day, 366 days this year, women must wash dishes! But there's a way to make it easier now.

Sprinkle the New Oxydol in your dishpan — and see how quick and easy dishwashing becomes. Its lively suds cut grease like a flash so dishes rinse sparkling clean!

Rich, long-lasting suds are the secret of easy clothes washing, too. Oxydol's busy suds float dirt out of clothes and hold it out so they are fresh and clean. That's why the New Oxydol saves your work and time — because it makes 50% more suds — richer, thicker, more fragrant suds.

And it's so easy on your hands you know it's safe for dainty things. Use enough for rich suds — it never boils up or leaves a scum even in the hardest water — and all water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a package of Oxydol.

LISTENING IN

With Fred Stone

(Editor's Note: Mr. Stone, beloved comedian, appearing at the Alvin this week in his new show, "Smiling Faces," consented to serve as guest-conductor of "Listening In" today and has written the breezy radio comment which follows in his own inimitable style.)

PAULA STONE
The "baby" of the famous comedian's family as she sang last night from WCAE in the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club frolic.

Well, sir, I listened to the finest radio program in all history last night. The Sun-Telegraph Nite Club is to be congratulated; Station WCAE is to be congratulated, and come to think of it, I ought to be congratulated m self.

Not that I had anything much—to do with it myself, of course, but all the time Paula was singing on the Nite Club program here I sat in my room in the William Penn "listening in" and sort of numming to myself: "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby."

* * *

AT ANY RATE, IT was a whole lot better than the time, a year or so ago, when my other daughter, Dorothy, was broadcasting in Newark. I hurried from the theater and ordered a radio sent up to my hotel room. They said it would take five minutes to set it up, and I still had 15 minutes before Dorothy went on the air. But when the radio man got through connecting it up, and stretching wires which weren't long enough, and tuning out the howls and squeaks, he got the right station at last, and Dorothy's voice finally came floating into the room:

"I hope you've enjoyed it, Daddy. Good-night!"

* * *

YES, INDEED, RADIO is a wonderful thing, but it sure does make me nervous. "Mike fright," they call it, I guess, and I've had it, and had it bad, all three times I was on the air. The first time—maybe you heard it—was about four years ago in that big Dodge hookup, when Dorothy and I went on from Chicago; my old pal, Will Rogers, from Hollywood, Paul Whiteman, from New York, and Al Jolson, from New Orleans. You remember, that was the time Will Rogers took off Calvin Coolidge so well it took them several months down in Washington to convince everyone it wasn't the President who had said all those crazy things. The last time I appeared was talking across the country from New York with Irene Dunn in Los Angeles.

* * *

But it's my second broadcast I want to tell you about. It was while I was in a hospital up in New London, Conn., after I had smashed up that airplane, as well as the major portion of my anatomy. I was lying there in bed, all enclosed in a plaster of paris cast from my neck on down. They had to put the microphone on my chest, or at least where my chest was underneath that cast. Say, I looked just like a mummy. And felt like one, too. One day, when I wasn't feeling so lively, I told the doctors that if I passed on, I wanted the youngsters to scribble a few hieroglyphics on the cast and just lay me away like an Egyptian Pharaoh.

* * *

IF I EVER DO get up enough nerve to face one of those microphones again, I'll tell the folks about the trip I made back to my old home-town in Kansas. It's Wellington. Ever heard of it? Well, anyhow, that's where I made my first public appearance, and it was in a greased-pole climbing contest. I won and got $5, and that's why they always look on me back in Wellington as a champion.

Well, anyhow, I was flying west a few years ago to visit Will Rogers and my ship was grounded at Wichita. That's only 20 miles from Wellington, and the folks there called me up and asked me to fly over.

I did. And what a time we had! They had a band out, and the Mayor and everybody else. The parade started and up Main street I rode right in back of the band. Then I happened to notice that there wasn't a single soul out watching the parade. That sort of took me down a few pegs. The Mayor noticed the glum look I was wearing and asked me what the trouble was. I told him I was a little disappointed that nobody thought enough of me to come out and watch the parade. Then he started to laugh:

"Watch the parade? Why, Fred, they're all in it."

* * *

Well, the radio editor tells me that this column has to have a few notes about some of the other programs, so here goes:

I'm going to try tonight to hear Jim Corbett on KDKA. Jim and I are old pals, and I sure would get a kick out of hearing him tell about his fight with Jim Jeffries at Coney Island, for I helped to train Corbett. Maybe that's why the lights went out for him that night.

I see Elsie Janis is on KDKA tonight in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" program. Elsie is a great girl and a wonderful artist. I've always had a warm spot in my heart for her ever since she was in "The Lady of the Slipper" with Dave Montgomery and myself.

* * *

And my old friend, John Philip Sousa, is on WCAE with his band at 8:30. Gosh, how I'd like to hear him. He came up to the hospital to see me when I was laid up and bragged about how he could always beat me trapshooting.

I notice there's another one of those international broadcasts on WJAS from Geneva at 6 tonight. I hope the speakers tonight keep their watches in their pockets for in the last one of them I heard, the speaker's voice was nearly drowned out by the loud and unmistakable tick-tock of a timepiece evidently lying on a table nearby. And from the sound, it must have been one of those Swiss watches, too.

Sherlock Holmes on KDKA at 9 tonight reminds me of the time I played the role of the great detective myself. Dave Montgomery was Dr. Watson. We must have been good, for that great actor, William Gillette, who played Holmes for years, saw us one night and came backstage afterwards. Without cracking a smile, he congratulated me and then added:

"I suppose now, the next time I play Sherlock Holmes I'll have to dance."

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

WHEN you have a cold, you pour thousands of germs into your handkerchief every time you use it!

These dangerous germs will self-infect you and give colds to others, unless you see they are destroyed.

You use Kleenex but once

Use Kleenex to do away with handkerchief danger during colds.

Kleenex is a new discovery, a tissue made of rayon-cellulose, to replace the ordinary handkerchief.

Kleenex costs so little that you use each tissue only once, then destroy. You destroy dangerous germs. You save yourself from disagreeable washing. And, since Kleenex is softer than cotton or linen, you suffer no irritation as with a damp handkerchief.

Price reduced!

And now you pay a third less for Kleenex! The generous box—formerly 50c—is now but 35c!

The same smart package. The same number of tissues. The same soft, cloth-like quality. Only the price has changed!

At this new low price you'll find more uses than ever for Kleenex. Use it to remove cold cream—to apply make-up—to polish spectacles. Sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Coyne to Engineer Sullivan Opposition

By MARK SHIELDS

Congressman P. J. Sullivan, who has taken out papers to place his name on the Republican ballot at the primary for renomination to Congress in the Thirty-second District, probably will have opposition.

This opposition will be engineered by Senator James J. Coyne, between whom and the Sullivans, the Congressman and his brother, Luke, there is one of the flamingest and niftiest political enmities to be seen anywhere on the map.

Coyne has been suggesting that he might run P. J. O'Malley, whom Sullivan trounced two years ago. But now there is a new story afloat from this stormy district.

Mr. Shields

This story has it that Councilman M. J. Muldowney may be the Coyne candidate for Congress, O'Malley having rendered himself less available through being indicted for circumstances in connection with the securing of tax receipts prior to the last county primary, when Coyne was a candidate for County Commissioner. Muldowney was the Coyne campaign manager in that contest, and before joining Council was a member of the Legislature under Coyne auspices.

* * *

Story Coyne Aspires To Be Councilman

This story, however, has a further ramification which is worth a thought. It continues that Coyne then would use his influence with Council to be elected to that body to serve out the remainder of the Muldowney term.

Meanwhile, of course, even should Muldowney be a candidate for Congress, Coyne would become a candidate for the Senate in an effort to hold that state position in the event Muldowney should be defeated by Sullivan.

Those gossips who say Coyne is considering the Council place, and who assert that discussions of the subject have been held by the board of strategy of the Oakland statesman, explain that he believes now his field of future political endeavor can be better plowed through official connection with municipal affairs than by a continuance in the Senate.

Anything is liable to happen in Pittsburgh city politics in the next few weeks or months. If a vacancy should occur in the Mayor's office the scramble would be vigorous. Under the conditions outlined Coyne could not become a member of Council in time to participate directly in this scramble, should a vacancy occur within the next few weeks, but he could come in shortly thereafter and make himself felt in the administration of any new man in the Mayor's chair.

* * *

Mayoralty Campaign To Be Kaleidoscopic

And then would come the campaign for the mayoralty primary in 1933, which promises to be one of the most colorful spectacles even this city of kaleidoscopic politics has even seen.

At any rate, there's the story. I don't vouch for it, but it certainly is not a program beyond reasonableness.

If present plans materialize there will be a contest among Democrats in at least four out of five Allegheny districts for the honor of sitting in the national convention at Chicago and nominating a candidate for President. The Democratic county organization, led by County Chairman Dave Lawrence, is attempting to set up delegates in the Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second and Thirty-fourth districts instructed for Gov. Roosevelt, of New York. The organization is making no fight so far on Maj. E. Lowrey Humes, who has declared as an unpledged candidate for delegate in the Thirty-third.

To combat the organization, other Democrats, following the policy of State Chairman John Collins and National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, have planned to put candidates in each district who would go to Chicago uninstructed for any candidate. Whether these plans will be pursued to finality probably will not be determined before the end of the week, though petitions have been taken out with this purpose in view.

* * *

Presidential Referendum Dropped for Prohibition

I understand that a national magazine which plans to conduct a referendum on prohibition sentiment originally intended to make the referendum a reflection of the attitude of citizens toward various presidential candidates. Some advance canvassing was done to sound out the sympathies of people in various walks of life, and when reports were made to the magazine headquarters plans for the presidential referendum were dropped in haste.

The reason was that an overwhelming sentiment was discovered against President Hoover at this time. Whether the magazine did not wish to author such a referendum result, or whether it feared the accuracy of a referendum now as reflecting sentiment in November—because if business improves present antipathies may be allayed—I do not know.

But at any rate there is another prohibition referendum and no request to readers to cast a straw ballot for President. * * *

On the radio tonight at 6 o'clock I had expected to interview Senator Coyne on political issues, and possibly personalities. The Senator, however, is ill, but his appearance is only delayed for a week or two.

Mark Shields will talk over Station WCAE at 6 o'clock tonight on political developments.

Refused Work, Job Hunter Kills Foreman

UTILITY HEADS TO ATTEND RATE PARLEY

VICTIM DIES IN WEST PENN HOSPITAL

Slayer Held Declares Shooting Due to Rage After Being Dismissed

William J. Watterkotte, 55, of 301 Allen avenue, shop foreman, died in the West Penn Hospital today after being shot in the abdomen late yesterday by a part-time employe whom, it is said, he had refused a job.

The shooting occurred in the Wilson Cabinet Manufacturing Company's shop, 2603 Penn avenue, when Watterkotte, police say, refused employment to Joseph Gyenes, 50, of 802 Ridge avenue, McKees Rocks, a former employe, who had been working a few days a month.

In Central Police Court today, Gyenes testified Watterkottee told him:

"I choose who I want to work for me. You don't buy me drinks or chewing tobacco."

When the foreman came toward him with upraised hands and said "Get out of here," Gyenes testified he became incensed and fired. He was formally charged with murder by police and will be given in custody of the Coroner.

Furloughed Because of Five-Day Week Rejection

SOME OF THE 250 TROLLEY OPERATORS, CONDUCTORS FURLOUGHED . . . . COLLECTED THEIR LAST PAY AT CRAFT BARN

Some of the Pittsburgh Railways trolley crews indefinitely furloughed—because by a majority of 66 street car men voted against the five-day week. A five-day week with its corresponding shifts would have saved their jobs, these men pointed out.

VOLUNTARY CUT SOUGHT BY COUNCIL

Seek to Avoid Litigation In Fight on Present Prices Charged Here

Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, today announced he would attend the conference called by City Council for tomorrow afternoon looking to reduction in utility rates.

Phillips said he would be present as representative of the three subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the Duquesne Light Company and the Equitable Gas Company. Thomas Fitzgerald, general manager of the Railways company, also would attend, he asserted.

The conference, arranged at the instigation of Councilman W. Y. English, is Council's first gun in the state-wide attempt being made to bring about reduction in gas, electric, telephone and water rates.

Council will not confine its action to gas and electric rates, but will seek reductions in telephone, bus, trolley and water charges.

Conferences will be arranged with other utilities companies at a later date, English said.

Council hopes, it was pointed out, to reduce rates without the trouble and expense of going to the Public Service Commission. City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt has estimated the necessary litigation would cost the city between $60,000 and $100,000.

Council expects to receive this week a report from Assistant City Solicitor Charles P. Lang on progress being made in the bus rate test case instituted by the Allied Boards of Trade.

TOWNSHIPS JOIN MOVEMENT

While the East Boroughs rallied at the Scott High School, North Braddock, last night, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, two additional townships indorsed the movement and accepted membership in the organization.

The Ross Township Board of Trade named W. H. Marquis as its official delegate. C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade, and Mahon S. MacDonald, of Bellevue Borough Council, addressed the meeting.

The Scott Township Board of Commissioners has voted to join the association. The action followed recommendation by the township civic association, which is planning a mass meeting.

ATTORNEY TALKS

Charging that the utilities get freedom from taxation and privilege to condemn property and are protected by the state against competition, Attorney Henry Eilenbogen told the North Braddock meeting last night:

"They received charters and licenses worth millions of dollars from the state without paying a cent. The private business gains none of these advantages. It must gamble to succeed, while the state permits rate boosts if a public utility company begins losing money.

"The state has the right to regulate this business and it is the duty of the Public Service Commission to do it. Yet the electric light utilities alone earned $26,000,000 excess profit over the established 7 per cent in 1929."

State President A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, presided. The organization's aims were outlined by Executive Chairman S. S. Baldridge, Apollo, and Committeeman Harry Wohlwend, Greentree.

The second rally in the organization's swing eastward will be held Saturday night at Williamsport. Davidson and Vice President C. J. Dickson, of Berwick, will speak. Councilman P. A. McGowan will preside.

SHORT WEIGHT HEARINGS SET

Hearings were to be held today on informations filed by Chief Inspector James P. Bailey, of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, against four Beechview avenue, Beechview, chain stores engaged in a price war for the last four weeks. The informations, filed yesterday before Alderman Thomas P. Geary, charged selling by short weight.

Agents making purchases at the stores said 13 cents was paid for only 6½ ounces of sliced ham selling at 25 cents a pound at one store and 10 cents for six ounces of bologna sold at 20 cents a pound at another.

Another information filed by Bailey before Alderman Geary named a filling station in Penn avenue, where a part of the city's gasoline is purchased. Bailey charged that an agent received less than four gallons and three quarts of gasoline when he paid for five gallons. A hearing was to be held today.

James McCabe, of 1319 Oakhill street, was held up by two armed bandits last night while he was climbing the Geyer street city steps. The thieves took $19 from their victim, police were told.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Flew here from Washington, 320 miles, in one hour and 30 minutes, piloted by Dave Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. I "bummed" or rather "thumbed" my way here. So I think that holds a record for speed for a hitch-hiker. This Ingalls is a very remarkable young man in more ways than flying, in fact he is the only Republican I would trust my life with. Say, just had a chat with Newton Baker. A pleasanter fellow you never met, and of course we know his ability. Instead of talking about himself, he was singing the praises of John Garner. That's no way for a candidate to do. The Democrats have got so many good men this year they can even make a mistake and still be right.

Yours, WILL.

Garner Pounds Pulpit to Pulp And Gets Action

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Senate established a record when it jammed the relief bill through in five February days.

It would have happened in five days in December.

But you remember the boys came to work exhausted from their vacations and voted themselves a two-week Christmas holiday with emoluments of office.

Speaker Garner gaveled the Congress into action by pounding his legislative pulpit into a pulp. Only one Congressman made a speech and Garner outhammered him.

It shows the boys can speed up production when they feel like it. Not that anybody objects to a man working with one foot on his desk.

We hope they put both feet on their desks for that's how we won the war.

While this relief is for the banks, the bankers object to an amendment restraining the bankers from counting the money too many times.

LAST PAY GIVEN 250 CARMEN

Two hundred and fifty street car men—with 10, 15 and even as high as 25 years of service—found themselves jobless today.

The number, from the various barns, came to the Craft avenue building yesterday afternoon for their last pay. Their deposit of $3.25 on the badge, punch and rule book was refunded as the men walked to the paymaster's window for their last pay. The men were furloughed indefinitely after the vote of the carmen Saturday. By a majority of 66, a five-day week plan which would have spared their jobs was defeated.

Most of those furloughed are married. Some have as many as 10 children to support. Many predicted the loss of their mortgaged homes.

The five-day week move was sponsored by John Murtha, of the Glenwood barn. The Glenwood barn voted for it by a big majority.

She is Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, of 721 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, who has been working temporarily in the law office.

McGovern pointed out that the board was committed to an economy policy and inquired if it would not be possible to transfer a stenographer temporarily from the Tax Board. Fife said that could not be done. Mortimer B. Lesher, former County Solicitor, sustained Fife. Motion to authorize the employment was offered by Commissioner C. M. Barr.

AUTO TAGS BOOM GARNER FOR PRESIDENT

Signs Imported By Speaker's Boosters

Enameled automobile signs advocating the nomination of John N. Garner for President made their appearance here today. They bear the slogan, "Garner for President."

The signs, more than 30,000 of which have already been made by an enameling concern at Cochrenton, Pa., were being distributed in the Pittsburgh district by supporters of Garner. Manufacturers of the tags said they expected to distribute more than a half million before the close of the campaign.

In addition to the Garner signs, others were being distributed bearing the slogan, "Four per cent beer — relieve unemployment." The sign, distributors said, would be taken to the Republican convention in Chicago.

MONEY COMING OUT OF HIDING, BANKER SAYS

Official Here Sees Decline Of Hoarding as Market Strength Gives Confidence

Money hoarded in chimneys, socks and strong boxes is coming out of hiding, an outstanding Pittsburgh banker said today.

Strength in the stock market, functioning of government credit bodies and returning confidence, it was declared, caused many to invest their savings or forego contemplated withdrawals of funds.

CONFIDENCE GAINING

The head of this banking institution, who did not wish his name used, fearing he might be termed a propagandist, said:

"There has been some evidence of currency coming out of hiding. The most encouraging thing, however, is the positive increase in the cancellations of withdrawals of saving account notices. In our bank, one of Pittsburgh's largest, the cancellations of notices for the past week is the largest in months, indicating restored confidence in banks generally."

Another prominent banker declared every dollar brought out of hiding means it becomes 10 in circulation. In other words he said, if the billion hoarded in the United States was put into the banks or invested, it would be the equivalent of placing 10 billions in circulation.

CIRCULATION CURBED

Much money, it also was stated, is being carried in the pockets of the people or other places in scores of communities now without banking facilities. This also has restricted the circulation of money.

Where money hoarders invest their savings in good bonds or other desirable securities it means added cash is immediately put into circulation to speed the recovery of business.

It was emphasized there is no better way to help bring about a return to normal conditions than by bringing money out of hiding and putting it to work either by spending it, making good investments or placing it in the bank where it will earn the owner's income.

Three young ladies put their heads together...

THEY WERE TALKING ABOUT SMOKING . . . whether girls should or should not smoke; but it came out that all three of them had been smoking for a long time.

They were asking each other what made a good cigarette. And after discussing one thing and another, they agreed that a cigarette should be milder.

They thought also that it should taste just right—that is, not over-sweet, but on the other hand, not bitter—just sweet enough.

And everybody, they said, wants anything that is placed in the mouth just as pure as can be.

Then they began to think what cigarette, if any, filled this bill; and agreed that CHESTERFIELD was milder—tasted better—and was pure. The girls were satisfied, because "They Satisfy."

COUNCIL DELAYS STEP FOR RAIL IMPROVEMENT

Herron's Conference With Atterbury on Terminal Condition Put Off Week

Arrangements for a conference with Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and President John S. Herron, of City Council, on improvements the railroad might make on its terminal here have been delayed a week. The delay was decided on yesterday at a meeting of Council's Committee on Finance.

Atterbury has asked for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to complete electrification of the company's main line between Washington and New York. Improvements in connection with the building of a new terminal here have been neglected by the railroad for seven years, according to Councilman W. Y. English.

In a resolution English said he felt the railroad should use some of the proposed loan funds for building a new station here, because manufacturers and others pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in freight and passenger rates to the road annually.

Atterbury will be asked to divert part of the fund to the Greater Pittsburgh district.

The defendants were represented by Attorneys John Duggan, Jr. and E. C. Higbee. Assistant District Attorney John A. McCann assumed charge of the prosecution after James I. Marsh, first assistant United States Attorney, left the case because of serious illness of his wife.

GEORGE LEWIS, 72 . . . SHOWING SOME OF HIS RARER COINS

Steel Worker May Lose 40-Year-Old Collection

Several old coins of a date and historic interest pertaining to George Washington have been discovered in the rare collection possessed by George Lewis, 72-year-old Pittsburgh iron and steel worker who lives at 2295 Valera avenue, Carrick.

One coin, dated 1783, made in England, was the first to have Washington's likeness on it. He has another, dated 1799, the year Washington died.

Another coin, dated 1787, was of the first mintage authorized by Congress. It has a sun-dial and the words "Mind Your Business" on the front, and a chain with 13 links, representing the colonies on the back, with the words "We are one."

Another prized coin is the Lafayette dollar put out by President McKinley in 1900, with Washington's features in relief against Lafayette's on the front, and Washington on a horse on the back. The coins were issued and sold for $2 each to raise money for the Lafayette memorial in France, Lewis said.

Out of work for four years, Lewis is faced with the probable necessity of parting with some of the coins in his 40-year-old collection.

SUDDEN CHANGE TO COMPLEXION BEAUTY AMAZED THEIR FRIENDS

Thousands of women no longer fear the results of constipation. For years their skin was dull and sallow. Pimples, blotches and blemishes marred every chance of beauty. But not any more.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers worked their wonders for them. Gentle internal cleansers—they quickly help to remove the causes, intestinal stasis and poisonous wastes that dull the eye, blotch the skin and stupefy the mind and personality.

A five day test of Stuart's Calcium Wafers will often work a wondrous change: soft, silken skin clear and free from faults! Bright, sparkling eyes! Alert and vigorous in mind and body! No wonder that so many thousands of people find that an occasional sugar-coated Calcium Wafer (Stuart's) is all the tonic that they need.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Gibson's Fine Spirit. Considers No Obstacles. North-South Grid Game.

Donohue as Comeback. Pitt Faces Tall Foes. Germans as Boxers.

CONFIDENCE OF PILOT TO HELP BUCS

THERE IS SOMETHING refreshing and encouraging in the attitude and demeanor of George Gibson as the new Pirate manager prepares to shove off tonight with his small advance guard for Paso Robles on the first lap of his attempted comeback. It wouldn't be difficult to imagine a more favorable setting than that provided for the take-off of a man who is endeavoring to engineer the uplift of a big league club after an absence of six years from baseball, but if Gibby has any doubt about the outcome it is not reflected in his bearing.

George Gibson

Here's a club that finished only fifth last year and wasn't able to win even half of its games. It batted only .266 and fielded only .968. It ranked seventh in the National League in batting, and was the poorest hitting club except the Braves. It ranked seventh in fielding, and was the poorest defensive club except the Phillies. It ranked seventh in base hits, sixth in slugging and sixth in runs scored. Not a lot of encouragement in that record.

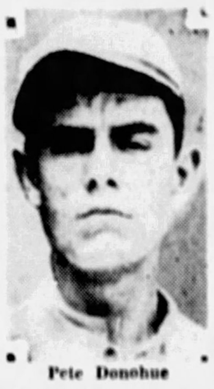
THE ROSTER SHOWS not a single new player of major league experience added during the winter to bolster the forces. The only additions are Bill Brenzel, a young catcher; Bill Swift, Jim Bivin, Vern Kennedy, John Niggeling, Jim Crandall and Charley Talor, rookie pitchers; Floyd Young, a recruit shortstop, and Dave Barbee and Gus Dugas, youthful outfielders. Bivin, Kennedy and Dugas are recalls. Crandall and Taylor are just out of college.

Besides, a number of old regulars still are unsigned, and it's a question just how soon Gibson will be able to have the entire squad under his eye in camp. All around, it's a situation not conducive to the peace of mind of a manager trying to make a fresh start after six years away from the game. But Gibby, far from offering any advance alibis, is taking hold of the big job with a care-free air and with as much confidence and enthusiasm as if his new charge had been a pennant winner last year.

EVIDENTLY, the Rover boss sees considerable promise in some of the new young timber; figures that Grosskloss or Piet will be able to plug the second base hole through which a dozen or more games slipped away last season, and anticipates a strong comeback by Comorosky and others who were off stride in 1931.

Whatever it is that makes the skies look bright to Gibby, there is no question that he is showing confidence that is bound to have a helpful effect upon the whole club. The men in the ranks are always influenced by the spirit of their leader, and the Pirate manager's optimism is a big item in favor of his success. He deserves all the support and encouragement the fans can give him.

ANDY KERR'S annual East-West football game on the Pacific Coast is to have a counterpart next season in Baltimore, where a special contest in the city stadium on December 10 will bring together teams composed of outstanding college players of the North and South. Because of Baltimore's location near the Mason-Dixon line, it is an ideal spot for a game of this character. The city is sponsoring the game and Mayor Howard W. Jackson is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visiting players.



Pete Donohue

AFTER TELLING THE world and the Boston American League club that the contract sent to him was not satisfactory, Pete Donohue was informed by President Bob Quinn that the first offer was also the last and that he could take it or leave it. Pete didn't wait to write. He telegraphed that he was entirely satisfied.

Donohue won 10 out of 14 games for Kansas City last year with the lively ball in use. John Savage, secretary and business manager of the Kansas City club, and in the A. A. for 25 seasons, figures Pete as more likely to make good again in the majors than any other veteran pitcher he has seen in the association in years.

TO THE BLUEJAYS of Creighton University, Omaha, must go the credit for the outstanding bit of defensive basketball this season. In Omaha recently, the Syracuse team, which defeated Pitt, 32 to 28, was walloped by Coach Schabinger's passers, and walloped badly.

The final score was 30 to 7. Syracuse got only one field goal, that coming in the last four minutes of play, and it was made on a long shot from 'way out front. A strange fact in connection with that lopsided score was that on the preceding night Syracuse had defeated Creighton, 25 to 19.

LOCAL FLOOR FANS who had the privilege of watching the fine team of Westminster College in action will see a quintet that is much similar when they eye the Creighton five in opposition to Pitt on the Stadium floor Saturday night. Coach Schabinger will be able to put on the court a Bluejay team that averages 6 feet 1 inch in height, and he has enough altitudinous subs to raise this average to 6 feet 3 inches. The tallest man on the squad is Willard Schmidt, center, towering 6 feet 8 inches, who is likely to make the going very rough for either Russ Ochsenhirt or Johnny Brown, Panther pivot men.

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT A moving picture concern has bought the name Madison Square Garden and is going to dramatize the big New York arena that Tex Rickard built, leads Bill Corum to wonder whatever became of the birds that stood around the tableux they made of Rickard's bier in the Garden more than three years ago.

It is recalled that they posed for the cameras with tears in their eyes and murmured brokenly to sentimental reporters that they had lost the best friend they ever had. One of Rickard's old friends visiting in New York walked through Woodlawn Cemetery the other day and discovered that there wasn't even a headstone over Tex's grave.

INSISTING THAT THE fact he is of German descent himself, or that he has a heavyweight coming over from that country, has nothing to do with his views, George Engel, former manager of Frank Klaus, Harry Greb and others, expresses the opinion that the Germans are the coming people in the boxing game.

George Engel

Engel has been stirred up again on this subject by the recent feat of Adolph Heuser in belting out George Manley in five rounds. Manley previously beat Maxie Rosenbloom twice, so Heuser would appear to be pretty good.

"OTHER MANAGERS CAN have the Italians, Frenchmen, Poles and the rest of the foreigners if they'll let me have the Germans," Engel says. "The Germans are just beginning to find out what it's all about, as far as boxing is concerned. They're enthusiastic about the game. It's new to them and they're going after it strong. They are game and rugged, and keen students of anything they take up. All they need is somebody who knows the game to teach them. That's where Schmeling was smart. He threw in with American managers who could teach him something. The German managers and handlers didn't know much about boxing, so they cannot be expected to teach the boxers much. Give a good German boy an American or English manager, and he'll show you something."

GIBSON LEADS PARTY OF SIX WESTWARD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

There will be nothing pretentious about the advance guard of Pirates which is due to leave Pittsburgh tonight on the long journey to the California training camp. Only six persons will be in the vanguard. Manager George Gibson will be in command of the little group which will consist of three pitchers, an employe of the club and Mrs. Gibson, wife of the Pittsburgh pilot.

The three players are Glenn Spencer, Bill Swift and Lawrence Bishop. The trio of hurlers met today at the home office. Spencer came from Binghamton, Swift makes his home in Scranton, while Bishop, who has had no professional experience, resides in New England. Assistant Trainer George (Chauff) Asten also will be in the entourage.

SWIFT PROMISING

Swift is the big recruit from Kansas City, for whom the Buccos had to give Catcher Eddie Phillips, Pitcher Bob Osborn and a sum of money. The powerful right-hander is one of the most promising of the new Buccos.

Bishop is a protege of the late Jack Chestro. The former Pirate slab ace sent Lawrence to the Buccos while the local team was in Boston last summer. The youngster had such a good fast ball, it was decided to get him into the Pirate family, and if he is impressive in camp he will be farmed out.

The small squad will leave the Pennsylvania station at 10:30 tonight. There will be no change in it until Chicago is reached tomorrow. At that point others will climb aboard, and the athletes will proceed to Kansas City, where they will be further augmented.

REACH CAMP SUNDAY

The vanguard is due to reach Paso Robles Sunday afternoon, but aside from the distribution of uniforms there will be no camp activities. Gibby, however, will issue a clarion call on Monday morning and at that time the pitchers and catchers will begin the actual work of preparation.

Quite a few of the batterymen reside on the Coast and these players have been instructed to go direct to camp. Several who perform in other positions also will partake in the work outlined for the batterymen.

Pirate officials today did not divulge any secrets surrounding the club's holdouts. Reports from the coast are to the effect that Remy Kremer and Larry French have refused to sign. There is a rule in the game which forbids the unsigned player to partake of training, but this legislation often is ignored, and it may be that the camp will shelter players who have yet to reach an agreement on the salary question.

The Waner boys were admitted holdouts as were Tony Piet and Ervin Brame. When the question was brought before the home officials they merely stated they were quite sure that all hands would be in camp at the proper time.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE NEVER-CEASING PRAYER—The little town of Sringhiri, in the district of Kadour, province of Nagar, state of Myssore, in Southern India, is dominated by a little hill, the birthplace of the famous Hindu sage, Sringha. On top of that hill is perched the temple dedicated to Sarasvati, the local tutelary deity. An image of this goddess has been brought hither by the great apostle of Siva, Sankar Acharya, in the year 782. Ever since that year, that is for 1,150 years without a moment's interruption, 28 monks have been maintaining a spiritual contact with the soul of the apostle by intoning the prayer to Sarasvati without a break. As soon as a monk dies he is replaced by another, whose life henceforth is devoted to the uttering of the old prayer. About 40 generations of monks have come and gone and ever since 782 the prayer of Sankar Acharya has not ceased to rise to the heavens for a minute. I have recited this prayer during one of my radio broadcasts to illustrate my narrative. THE IRON CROWN OF LOMBARDY—The Iron Crown is a famous relic of the ancient Lombardo-Venetian Kingdom, and is supposed to have been a gift from Pope Gregory the Great to Queen Theodelind, in the seventh century. It is made of gold, but is lined with a thin plate of iron which is said to have been hammered from one of the large nails used in the Crucifixion. It is preserved in the Cathedral of Monza, Italy, and, when exhibited, tapers are lighted and much ceremony observed.

All tri-state district basketball hands rest tonight with the exception of those at Carnegie Tech and West Virginia. While the others are marking time for peppery action during the remainder of the week, the Skibos and Mountaineers clash at Morgantown as the Tartans complete a two-game visit to foreign courts.

Last night the Plaid met and defeated Wash-Jeff, 30-25.

The Techs and West Virginians met only once last season, with Carnegie emerging on the long end of a 34-26 score here in Pittsburgh. Those who witnessed that contest will recall the sparkling performance of George Nease, who captained last year's Skibo varsity. Nease dumped half a dozen field goals and a brace of fouls.

RECORDS DRAB

Neither Tech nor West Virginia has accomplished anything to call out the troops about this season. The Tartans have taken it on the mush no fewer than seven times. West Virginia has won about three major games. With Carnegie campaigning minus the services of Red Fergus, the outcome of tonight's fracas looks like nothing short of a tossup.

Tomorrow night Grove City and the Dukes clash here in the evening's feature battle, with Bethany and Westminster disporting themselves at Bethany, Penn State taking on Fordham in New York, Fairmont meeting Bluefield at Bluefield and Wesleyan and Salem going to it in the Tigers' lair.

The clash 'twixt the Grovers and Dukes, booked for the Dukes' gymnasium, is one of the highlights of the Red and Blue's home campaign. Grove City has been staggering to and fro in a rut for the past couple weeks and is about ready to break out in a rash of field goals. It will be well if the Dukes have an antitoxin on hand tomorrow evening.

The Tipoff

The rubberneckers of football who came out of their huddle over the week-end with a set of changes for the game's code, appear not to have struck many responsive chords, despite the fact that some coaches have come out with laudatory comments.

The committee meets next fall along the line, but like the pest who numbered on the water wagon and then fell off reaching for the whisky, it staggered out of line in more than one instance. If the changes are as they are lined up now, as compared, it looks like we'll be in for more and better penalties next fall.

That rule against the flying tackle has been in the books for years and years, but how often have you, or you, or you, seen it called? If you think they'll call the flying block, any oftener than they have the flying tackle, you're another think coming.

A recommendation came down to the officials from the rules committee's committee regarding the substituting of players with reference to preparatory and high school teams. It is not in the books, but how many high school teams can perhaps their own substitution rules merely by getting the coaches together with the officials before the start of the game. The same idea could have been utilized when leagues. Parts always has been a squawk because the coach could change strong players for not yet to see enough service. They are now sure that the referees are to listen not to reason, but to what they have on the fray.

The official concerning yesterday on the rule against the use of the hands, a la Dempsey, by defensive play, said they'd have to come right out and punch openly before he'd disqualify a man. It isn't so much when punching is called for a yardage penalty only, but this disqualification now that's something else.

Walter E. Dench, the commissioner of the Eastern Football League, is the father of Frank Dench, who is only about tomorrow for a recital with Charlie coaches graduate managers and officials and can look forward to a day spent in reminiscing on the rule changes. If he misses his train here, he'll be a smart fellow.

Coach Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech, is going to resume spring football practice to the Tartan schedule this year. The Tartans did very well during practice last year, but Coach Bobby was not satisfied with the result and will have his Skibo gridders out for a two or three week session in a month or so.

Wash-Jeff's tennis meet West Virginia University at Morgantown, W. Va., tonight.

MEADOWS MAY PILOT IN M.-A.

EBENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Some former major league stars are going to shine this season in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League.

Lee Meadows, bespectacled pitcher, who played for the St. Louis Cardinals, the Philadelphia National League club and the Pittsburgh Pirates, is dickering for a managerial berth. Other former big leaguers also are negotiating for places.

Representatives of the various clubs are to attend a meeting in Wheeling Sunday night, when plans for the new campaign will be worked out. Sentiment in favor of an eight-club loop is growing. The league was composed of 12 teams last season—the only 12-club league in existence.

Scottdale is to surrender its franchise at the meeting. The St. Louis Cardinals recently abandoned the team as a "farm," and officials of the Scottdale outfit said they were not willing to go it alone.

Johnstown's boosters are to have a meeting the latter part of this week to reorganize. The league president, Elmer Daily, will be a speaker. New efforts are being made to place a franchise in Altoona.

OLD-TIMERS PLAY

A group of old-time stars, among them Jack Grill, a professional local player of 20 years ago; Billy Smiley, West Davis, Joe Knight, Moose Neely and Sam Craig, representing Horne's Alumni, were outclassed, 45 to 8, in a contest with the Jo Jo Club last night.

WILDER IS LOST

A blow was struck at the hopes of the Y. M. H. A. passers last night when Dave Wilder, former Duquesne University performer, announced that he would be unable to appear Thursday against I. R. S., business calling him out of town.

CUBS ARRIVE AT CAMP

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Chicago's Cubs came to Avalon yesterday in a downpour of rain, which failed to dampen their fire of determination to lay the spring training foundation for a 1932 National League pennant.

Rogers Hornsby, picking up the zest of his squad of 18 players, mostly of the younger crop, wore an enthusiastic grin.

"We'll have a hustling ball club," he predicted. "It will be fast and peppy; a lot of ambitious youngsters who can run the bases. It looks as if we have picked up what we most lacked last year, and that's speed."

Three players were on hand to greet the squad along with the usual turnout of all hands in the village of Avalon. These were Pat Malone, veteran righthander, who won 16 games and lost nine last year; Bill Campbell, a young catcher farmed to Los Angeles last season, and Stanley Hack, rookie third baseman purchased from Sacramento.

Host is Elected Notre Dame Leader

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Feb 17.—Paul Host, of La Crosse, Wis., has been elected captain of the Notre Dame University football team for this year. Host, a junior, was elected at the annual meeting, at which monograms were given out to last year's stars. He is an end. Ed Kosky, also an end, was Host's chief opponent for the captaincy. Several ballots were taken before Host received a majority.

Baseball Night, Casey at the Bat 'N' All on WCAE Tonight

Tonight's the night Manager George Gibson leads his advance squad of Pirates out of Pittsburgh for the Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp. Before departing, the players will participate in a farewell program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in the studios of WCAE, at 7 o'clock.

Those expected to figure in the festivities are Manager Gibson, Treasurer William E. Benswanger and Secretary Sam E. Watters, along with Pitchers Glenn Spencer, Bill Swift and Lawrence Bishop, who will make up the camp vanguard.

In addition, Julius Levin, one of the original Trained Seals, will recite the immortal "Casey at the Bat" in his own inimitable way, Charley Doyle will quiz the baseball notables and Harry Keck, sports editor, will act as master of ceremonies.

Tune in at 7 o'clock and get your first whiff of the year of baseball's balmy breezes.

COLLEGIAN GETS MAJOR TRIAL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Roy Hudson, of Girard, O., captain of the 1931 University of Michigan football team, will be a member of the Cleveland Indians baseball club during spring training at New Orleans.

Hudson, a first baseman, has agreed to General Manager Billy Evans' suggestion that he work out with the club this spring to give Roger Peckinpaugh an opportunity to size him up as a potential major leaguer. A contract was promised if he made good. Eddie Morgan played the position last year, but with indifferent success.

The Michigan star has been sought by several major league clubs, including the Detroit Tigers. Hudson is a senior, but is ineligible for baseball at Ann Arbor this spring because of scholastic difficiencies.

T. S. JAMISON SEMI-FINALIST

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Thomas S. Jamison, of Greensburg, Pa., the medalist, advanced to the semi-finals of the annual seniors golf tournament here yesterday, defeating Dr. George S. Proctor, of Greensburg, on the home green.

R. J. Breed, of Danvers, Mass., long-driving ace, defeated R. T. White, of Bayonne, N. J., 5 and 4.

R. C. Shannon met his hometown rival, C. S. Strout, of Biddeford, Me., and won, 6 and 5.

The day's principal upset came when J. A. Middleton, of Chicago, ended his match 2 up on A. P. Gray, of New York, former champion of the Arcola Country Club and member of the United States senior team last summer.

Jamison meets Breed, and Middleton meets Shannon today.

TARTANS TRIP PRESIDENTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 17.—Carnegie Tech emerged victorious over W. & J., 36 to 25, here last night. The battle was featured by a rejuvenated W. & J. team waging a determined fight against a quintet which had swamped it early in the season.

The score was 21 to 10 at half time. The Presidents returned to the battle to stage a rally which brought them to within five points of the Tartans. The Skibos then gained the upper hand and gradually increased the lead. They were held on even terms by the Prexies, however, during the half.

Lieber furnished much of the fireworks for the Presidents and emerged the high scorer with 13 points. Smith and Jagnow, point-getting aces of the Tartans, netted nine points each.

In a preliminary game, Carnegie's Plebes defeated the Vice Presidents, 28 to 24. The lineups:

SWITCH GAINS LEAGUE TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

The Union Switch and Signal soccer eleven was assured the championship of the Central League last evening when the appeals committee of the West Penn Football Association upheld a league decision given against Clan Douglas. The Clansmen protested a game in which Player Palmer of Westinghouse took part. The league threw out the protest and the governing body sustained the league.

Clan Douglas had to win the protest in order to equal the points garnered by Union Switch. So the Swissvalers have won their first title in many years of competitive soccer.

Approximately 10 officials players, fans and referees crowded their way into the meeting which was held to consider the Douglas and Donnelli cases. After a long-drawn-out conlab it was decided to fine Buff $5 for his break in soccer etiquet in defending himself from profane language after he found little protection from officials.

With several who had to be whitewashed for their part Buff had to take the rap which will do the game little or no good. The case is similar to the famous suspension of Ernest Balsarini after his team had been good enough to win two national titles.

However this will not be the end of the Donnelli case. Tampering with professionals also is considered unsportsmanlike conduct and there are penalties to be meted out for that breach of the game.

SWISS ANNEXES SLED TITLE

MT. VAN HOEVENBERG LAKE PLACID, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Reto Capadrutt, 19-year-old Swiss College student, today won the North American and A. A. U. two-man bobsled championships in two runs down an Olympic slide slowed by overnight snows. His times were 2.07.98 and 2.06.97, total 4.14.77.

Second to Capadrutt today was J. Hubert Stevens, of Lake Placid who won the Olympic title last week in a thrilling brush with the young European racer. Capadrutt finished second.

Stevens was far behind the young Swiss today, his total time being 4.25.30, 11 seconds slower than Capadrutt made.

Henry Homburger, of Saranac Lake, winner yesterday of the four-man North American championship was third. Ray Stevens of Lake Placid, fourth, Gilbert Colgate, Jr., fifth and Harry Grayson, Martin, of New York, sixth. The summary:

Reto Capadrutt, Switzerland	1:03.99	1:03.99	2:07.98
J. Hubert Stevens, Lake Placid	1:04.17	1:03.80	2:07.97	4:15.95
Henry Homburger, Saranac Lake	1:04.25	1:04.05	2:08.30	4:16.60
Ray Stevens, Lake Placid	1:04.36	1:04.30	2:08.66	4:17.32
Gilbert Colgate, Jr., Lake Placid	1:04.42	1:04.36	2:08.78	4:17.56

Amateur bouts at Old City.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Two swell names to draw to. That's what Promoter Apples Meyers has for his main bout in the Moose Temple downtown tonight.

First of all he has Guy Salerno who took the natives by storm in stopping Jocko Walters, Negro puncher of Springfield, O., in the same ring a few weeks ago. And to oppose him he has none other than George Courtney, the ol' Oklahoma Cowboy himself, who defeated Patsy Perroni of Canton, O., in the Meyers Bowl last summer and is known to have fought all of the leading middleweights during the last half-dozen years.

BOTH HAVE CLASS

Courtney takes the place on 48 hours' notice of Dick Evans of Youngstown, who was forced out with a sprained ankle. George had been in training for another fight which was canceled and was glad to accept the local engagement while he was fit.

Both Salerno, who is the protege of Jack Perry, former local welterweight boxer, and Courtney have class and both can box and punch. Their bout ought to be a good one.

Sue Carol and Nick Stuart, appearing at the Stanley Theater this week, who knew Perry when he was in the movies in California and have seen Salerno fight on the Coast, have accepted an invitation to be on hand for the main bout tonight.

BROOKS BOXES SPEIGAL

Roger Brooks of Cleveland, who spilled Tom Malco a half-dozen times in the first round of their bout at the Moose recently, returns against Joey Speigal Uniontown southpaw welterweight, in the semi-final. Bobby Stewart of the Hill boxes U. S. Carpenter of New Kensington in the second bout and Ray Wimbush, Hill Negro welterweight, makes his professional debut against Jimmy Gibbs of Wheeling, in the opener, at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Steve Hamas knocks Jimmy Dean in the first night.

The Italian Flash (Lou Salmone) returned home last night to defeat Al Tod Monday night in Madison Square Garden one week from next Monday night.

The preliminaries of the Greater Pittsburgh amateur boxing championships are listed in McKeesport tonight, with the finals tomorrow night.

Ben Billy Hair and Tiger Joe Randall who box the windup at the Kazanah Arena, 2nd Center avenue and Fifth, tonight are talking about winning with a knockout. They're dangerous punchers. The Iowa Negro and Pittsburgh fellow will be at stake with both the challenger.

Tom Andrews, Aliquippa heavyweight boxing is laid off the count. This is the thirty-second year of publication.

Frankie Bachman of New York, manager of Mickey Rosenbloom, the world light heavyweight champion, is the new pilot of Harrison Mitchell, Clan boxer from Harvard, in the 10-round windup at Moose Temple next Monday night. Jack Hagan, manager of Jimmy Goodman, Hermann Perrin, Joseph Dubilewicz, Joe Dalton, Andy Cavanaugh, Tommy Brogan, Mike Dundee and many others of note.

Jim Corbett will tell about the time the lights went out during his first fight with Jim Jeffries, at Coney Island, and of a fourth bout with Kid McCoy over $10,000 at 6:30 tonight.

Bruno Bala, of Donora and Buster McAuley, of Wilkinsburg, light heavies, box the eight-round semi-final at the Kazanah arena Friday night. The fought ten times at Rivers Park last summer.

Earl Mastro Quits Ring for Stage

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Earl Mastro, little Chicago Italian, who is regarded as the outstanding contender for the world featherweight title, has given up his ring career for one in vaudeville.

Mastro, only 22 years old and a remarkably clever boxer, left today for Springfield, O., to make his first appearance in a song and dance act with his wife as partner.

Following his failure to take the featherweight title from Bat Battalino last November in the Chicago Stadium, Mastro accepted no more offers for bouts, even refusing another chance at Battalino.

During his short career he has beaten almost every star in his class including Bud Taylor, Fidel La Barba and Eddie Shea.

Toronto Ice Team Is Sued by Duncan

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Suit for $2,800 against the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National Hockey League, has been filed by J. Arthur Duncan, who claims that sum for services as coach of the team.

Duncan claims he is entitled to $800 monthly for the period from October 15, 1931, to March 15, 1932, of which he has received $1,200 on account. Damages also are claimed for alleged wrongful dismissal and for alleged breach of contract in connection with the dismissal.

Duncan was succeeded as coach of the team by Dick Irvin, former coach of the Chicago Blackhawks, in December.

FAVORITES ADVANCE

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Favorites progressed through the first round of match play of the Belleair amateur golf championship here yesterday. Among first round winners were: R. Beaumont, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., who defeated Fitzgerald, Dunning, of Baltimore, 5 and 3, and Dr. L. B. Dickerson, of Clearwater, who won from H. A. D. Dunning, Baltimore, 5 and 4.

DREYFUSSIANS

Stories They Tell of the Late Barney Dreyfuss

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

When umpires get together they are not unlike the "good fellows" of song and story. The men who call 'em as they see 'em may be outcasts during the summer months, ostracized by baseball society, but they have their own pleasurable reunions not unfrequently.

A fanning bee among umpires hardly would be complete unless Barney Dreyfuss were put "on the spot." Practically every arbiter of National League repute was the target for a Dreyfussian arrow during Barney's 32-year reign in Pittsburgh. And so when the judges of play met on any common ground it was only natural that they should compare notes concerning the Steel City magnate.

To chronicle the truth, it should be written the umpires showed little or no malice as they took Barnes "for a buggy ride." Any sting his arrows carried as they were released from his impulsive bow was changed into a pleasant memory as the years went on, and by this token the umps' voices rang with laughter as they told of their run-ins with the owner of the Pirates.

Dreyfuss could "second guess" an umpire as well as any grandstand manager you have seen or heard and when his club finished second in any contest in which a disputed ruling figured, the unfortunate official of play would hear things from Dreyfuss that hardly were complimentary of the umpire's ability. Yes, Barney would forcibly show them their "mistakes," and while he sometimes would complain to the president of the league, he would soften if an arbiter's job hung in the balance. And the men of the indicator knew this, too.

Robert D. (Bob) Emslie, veteran umpire, who now assists President John A. Heydler in the administration of the umpiring division of the National League, spoke what should be recorded as a baseball classic when approached for an interview on his profession.

Emslie, who ranks with Bill Klem, Hank O'Day and other luminaries, was not immune from the Dreyfuss shafts, but Bob, like most of his brethren, had the saving sense of humor.

At a comparatively recent date Emslie became affiliated with the government of a New England city. Naturally, his baseball experience made him a big figure in the community and an enterprising reporter sought him out for the interview.

"Mr. Emslie," began the reporter, "you have had a great career in your profession. Would you mind telling me, who, in your opinion, is the greatest umpire."

And like a flash Bob answered:

"Barnes, Dreyfuss!"

Follow this series of reminiscenses of the late Barney Dreyfuss daily in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

MRS. L. RILEY ELIMINATED

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17.—Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Pittsburgh, after being eliminated in the tournament proper, returned to the championship of Florida golf competition in the consolation division and is opposing Mrs. W. H. Whitney, of Glen Head, N. Y., over the Palm Beach Country Club course today.

Mrs. Riley was put out in the title 16 yesterday by Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, Kan., former western champion, by 3 and 2. The Pittsburgh woman could not cope with the excellent stroking of the Kansas woman, who was 3 up at the turn. Mrs. Riley won only one hole from Mrs. Sterrett during the match.

In the championship second match round today, Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., winner of the qualifying medal, is opposing Grace Amory, of Palm Beach. Helen Hicks, national women's titleholder, is tackling Mrs. Lillian Zech, of Chicago, in another title flight match. Maureen Orcutt, several times eastern champion, is playing Mrs. H. Ferris, of Boston, and Mrs. Sterrett is opposing Mrs. Charles R. Harbaugh, of Cleveland.

Chelsea, Ki'marnock Win Soccer Replays

GLASGOW, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Kilmarnock today entered the fourth round of the Scottish Football Association Cup competition by defeating Dundee United 3-0 in a replay from the third round.

Neyland Rejects Wisconsin Offer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Maj. Robert Neyland, University of Tennessee football coach, told the News-Sentinel by telephone from Chattanooga today that he had rejected an offer to coach at the University of Wisconsin.

While Coach Neyland has not signed his 1932 contract at Tennessee, university athletic officials expressed the belief he would sign soon. Meantime, Neyland has been going ahead with spring football practice at Tennessee.

Sports Scholarships Abolished by Thiel

GREENVILLE, Pa., Feb. 17.—Thiel College has abolished all scholarships granted for athletic purposes, but students who already hold scholarships will not be effected, Dr. E. Clyde Xander, president of the Luthern college, said in announcing sports policy change yesterday.

After the next football season, the Lutherans will compete only against institutions also known as "lily whites." These will include Bethany and Allegheny.

YANKS SIGN FOUR

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees came in terms with four more of their athletes, leaving only Babe Ruth, Bill Dickey, Ben Chapman and Lyn Lary among the holdouts. The latest to the fold are Earle Combs, veteran centerfielder; Charley Ruffing, pitching star; Eddie Farrell, infielder, and Frank Neanis, southpaw.

DAILEY, TENNIS LEADER, DIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Louis B. Dailey, former president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, died early today at his home in South Orange, N. J.

He was 56 years old.

Dailey was president of the New York Real Estate Board and a vice president of the Equitable Building Corporation of New York.

He became ill last Wednesday and double pneumonia developed.

He is survived by Mrs. Dailey and two sons, Louis B., Jr., a Princeton graduate, and Edward, captain of the tennis team at the University of Virginia.

Dailey was president of the U. S. L. T. A. in 1930 and had been actively connected with tennis and tennis association for several years.

Dailey was known as one of the progressives in tennis circles. He was a reformer with very definite ideas and with definite plans for realizing them. Frank and outspoken, he never made any secret of his thoughts.

Hamas Knockout Victor Over Emanuel

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—Armand Emanuel, once something of a heavyweight sharpshooter of the West's punch bowls, was only knockout victim No. 25 on sturdy Steve Hamas' report card today.

The former Penn Stater finished off San Francisco's battered barrister last night after 30 seconds of the second round with a short, stiff right to the chin, but a thunderbolt right below the heart in the first round paved the way.

MARKET EASES AFTER FIRM OPENING

Losses in Leading Shares Range From 1 to 3 Points; Westinghouse, Steel Off

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The stock market was unable to break out of the January price range on the upside today, just as it failed to break through on the downside a week ago.

The market had an interval of firmness in the morning, but eased off after mid-day. Payment of the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 by American Telephone had been fairly widely anticipated, and brought out more profit-taking than fresh buying.

Losses in principal shares in the afternoon, ranged from 1 to 3 points, with American Telephone registering one of the maximum declines. Issues off a point or two included United States Steel, General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse, North American, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, International Harvester, Union Carbide, Dupont and others. Selling, however, was in moderate volume. There were temporary advances of 1 to 2 points during the morning.

A distinct undertone of bullishness was apparent in brokerage quarters, but Wall street generally seemed to feel that over enthusiastic bidding up of the market at this stage would be unwise. Some important bankers felt that a fairly stable market around current or moderately higher levels would be about the best that could be expected pending conclusive signs of a turn for the better in general business conditions.

The regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 by American Telephone had apparently been fully discounted by that stocks sharp rise in recent sessions which had apparently eliminated much of the short interest. The demand for stocks in the loan crowd, brokers said, still indicated a fair-sized short interest in the general market, but some felt that a fresh building up of the short position would be necessary to restore the market to a strong technical position.

The mid-week business statistics were mixed. Bradstreet's reported a decrease from the previous week of 20 7-10 per cent in the number of business failures for the week ended February 11, as against a normal seasonal decrease of only 4 4-10 per cent. The electric power consumption figures showed a drop of 6.2 per cent from the like week of last year, against only 5.4 per cent in the previous week. The weekly petroleum statistics showed the large gain of 2,654,000 barrels in gasoline in stock.

SAME DIVIDEND ON A. T. & T.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on the capital stock, payable April 15 to record of March 12. The action was in line with Wall street expectations, although a few weeks ago there were reports that the payment might be reduced. The company covered its full $9 annual requirement by a small margin in 1931.

American Telephone is the most widely held security and sources close to the management have indicated that directors would probably be reluctant to cut the dividend.

The last compilation showed that 640,000 persons held American Telephone stock. A large part of this total represents employes of the Bell System.

Federal Bank Bonds Sold to Investors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation today announced it had been unnecessary for it to purchase any part of the $15,000,000 of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank debentures.

One of the first official acts of the corporation was to announce it would take any part or all of the issue which remained unsold on February 15.

The entire issue was purchased immediately in the investment market.

Canadian Wheat Supply Declines

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Feb. 17.—(AP.)—A drop of more than 1,500,000 bushels was recorded in the visible supply of Canadian wheat at all points during the week ending Saturday last, the statistical branch of the board of grain commissioners reported today. The total was given as 188,068,203 bushels.

Export clearances were 2,609,055, principally from Pacific coast ports. No movement was reported by any Canadian Atlantic ports.

Youngstown Sheet Improves Plants

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 17.—Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company is spending $150,000 at its Campbell plant for installation of equipment carrying gas between blast furnaces and coke plant. The improvement will reduce operating costs substantially.

Other more extensive improvements planned by the company probably will be delayed until business conditions warrant.

Stock Exchange Seat Price Up $19,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $175,000, an increase of $19,000 over the last previous transaction.

COTTON STEADY AT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 5 points on active trade and commission house buying coupled with general news developments. May sold at 7.03. Part of the early buying came through houses with foreign trade connections while there also appeared to be some broadening of commission house interest. May sold up to 7.05 and October to 7.47, making net advances of about 6 to 8 points, but there was a good deal of selling which caused reactions of a few points during the first half hour.

The more urgent demand was evidently supplied by realizing and Southern selling on the early advance, but while the buying tapered off somewhat, offerings were absorbed on comparatively slight reactions. The market at midday was steady, with May selling around 7.02 and October 7.44 or 3 to 5 points net higher.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 17.—Cotton—Spot good business done; prices nine points higher; quotations in pence. American strict good middling 6.37; good middling 5.97; strict middling 5.87; middling 5.82; strict low middling 5.72; low middling 5.62; strict good ordinary 5.42; good ordinary 5.12. Receipts 8,000 bales, all American. Futures closed firm: March 5.53; May 5.51; July 5.51; October 5.55; December 5.61; January 5.63.

ATTORNEY RAPS 'SHORT SALE'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP.)—The practice of short selling on the stock market was assailed and defended today in hearings before a house judiciary subcommittee on legislation for its abolition.

William R. Perkins, a New York attorney, testified that bear raiders employing powerful propaganda were the chief cause of recent stock market liquidation.

He was followed by S. S. Huebner, professor of insurance at the University of Pennsylvania, who said short selling is "a necessary and normal part of an organized market" and that it was not a "substantial cause of present business conditions."

Perkins said:

"There have been ugly and persistent rumors regarding short selling. A case in point seems Radio-Keith-Orpheum class A shares. On October 20, 1931, the price was 8⅝ and the short interest 5200 shares. By November 5, 1931, the short interest had increased to 148,852 shares with a 8⅝ price. There after a financing plan was announced, later a receiver was asked, and on December 21, the price was 75 cents.

"Manifestly the short sellers had information denied not only to the publice who might buy, but even to the stockholders themselves, until the collapse."

Pennsy Loadings Higher for Week

Total cars handled by the Pennsylvania railroad system for the week ended February 13 were 92,145 against 89,144 last week and with 114,755 cars last year. The decrease from the 1931 week was 19.7 per cent compared with a drop of 22.8 per cent shown by the preceding week from a year previous.

From January 1 cars totaled 619,352 against 769,055 in the same 1931 period. A decrease of 19.5 per cent.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The curb market maintained a steady undertone against sporadic profit-taking today. Attempts to extend Tuesday's advance met with an unenthusiastic response, but quotations gave only a little ground when offerings appeared and the list moved in a narrow zone.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Lily Lou Consents to Marry Ken Despite Reasons Against It

CHAPTER XII

"You must be crazy!" Ken said.

"No, just sensible." Lily Lou's mouth was firm. She spoke without excitement. Her voice was flat, and a little tired.

"But Lily Lou, why at least can't we be friends? Don't we get along fine? Don't we have fun together? Things are just starting. The girls liked you so much. I can get you in on no end of parties——"

She smiled at him. There were times when she felt so much older than Ken, for all his knowledge of social customs, of that life that was strange to her.

"You don't understand," she said.

"No. I'm darned if I do."

They had been riding around aimlessly. It was a Thursday night—the Thursday after Ken's party at the country club.

Ken was hurt terribly hurt, and Lily Lou was sorry. Hurting Ken had a queer effect on her. It was like hurting herself. She couldn't be sorry for him, the way she could be for someone else. It was just part of the ache, the unhappiness that was part of her.

They drove silently for what seemed like hours to Lily Lou.

"Hadn't we better turn back?" she asked finally.

BREAKING HER HEART

For answer he drove the car to the side of the road, drew her to him, kissed her again and again. "Lily Lou," he said in a half strangled voice, "you can't do this to me. I—I love you. More than anything in the world. Why, you—you are the world to me. You're what I think of—oh, living—and I don't know what I've done to spoil your love for me. What made you change? Tell me—"

His voice broke.

Lily Lou was sick with the strain of it. "I haven't changed. I told you that—"

"You still—love me?"

She met his eyes bravely. "Yes, Ken."

"You don't really mean it—"

"I'll always love you—always—"

"But then—" He couldn't finish the sentence. He had her in his arms again, loving her, holding her tight, and she was weakly, almost tearfully, trying to draw away. "Please Ken—don't—oh, it's no use. Ken—"

"Lily Lou, if you love me you can't leave me—"

"That's just it—I can. I love you. But I can't go on like this. It's breaking my heart. I'll be unhappy all the time, and my music is going to pieces—I can't work—can't remember anything. I'll lose my voice next, and then what will I do?"

"Love me. Let me take care of you—"

NOT HIS KIND

She pushed his loving hands away. "Oh, Ken—what's the use of TALKING?"

"But Lily Lou—"

"Ken, I'm not your kind. I can't love you a little, and be happy with you, and play tennis with you like Peggy Sage and those others—"

"You're better than the others—more precious—"

"Hush, Ken—please. Let me tell you. I'm all alone, without any rich father and mother to do things for me, if I fail to do them for myself. I'm earning my own living. And that isn't all. I'm studying at night. I'm trying to make something of myself, and it's hard enough, without—oh, Ken—don't spoil it. I'll be nobody then. Just a second rate telephone operator, with a lot of unpaid bills, and a disappointed family—"

While she talked Ken's face grew gray and pinched. He seemed to draw into himself.

"All right. I won't spoil your life, Lily Lou."

He held her hand, so tight that it hurt.

She felt desolate. Wondered how she had ever thought she could do this—give up Ken.

"Don't you care?" he asked after a long, dreary silence.

ASKS TO MARRY HER

She couldn't bear the hurt in his voice. "I'm doing it now, while I can still bear it. If I—if I let myself care, ever a little more, I couldn't—couldn't—"

"You DO care. You aren't going to leave me—"

"Yes—but I've got to—"

"Why? Tell me—"

"Because—" She hadn't meant to tell him. Last night she thought wild horses couldn't drag it out of her, but now, with his lips on her cheek, his arms tight around her. "Because we can't ever be married, or anything—"

There. It was out.

"The devil we can't!"

"No—we can't, and so—"

"Why can't we?"

She felt that he was blustering, and that hurt too. She said, gathering all her courage, "Ken, don't pretend. Your mother and father wouldn't let you marry me, even if you wanted to, and in a year or two you won't want to. You see, it's the only thing to do—not to get to care any more. I mean. . . I couldn't bear any more. Please take me home, Ken. I'm so tired."

He drove her home. They didn't speak one word all the way.

At her door he turned to her, his face all drawn and twisted, so that he didn't look like Ken Sargent at all.

"Lily Lou," he asked, "will you marry me?"

When she drew back, without answering, he went on, still in that tense, hard voice. "Will you take out an 'intention to wed'—tomorrow—and marry me Monday? Oh, damn the California three-day wait—damn it—damn it—"

WEAK OBJECTIONS

Her knees felt weak. She sat down on the stone step. "Ken—I—" She was going to say "I can't!" but what she really said was "I shouldn't!"

She looked up at him, trying to make up her mind. His face wasn't pinched any more. He was laughing down at her triumphantly. Kissing her, hugging her until it hurt, until she felt that her very ribs would crack.

What could she say? "I love you so," she whispered.

"Tomorrow at 10, we'll go and file the intention—"

"I have to work."

"You have to work, when you're getting married?"

"Well, I should—I'll have to go over anyway, if I'm going to leave, to get my things—"

"What things?"

"Powder, and soap, and I think there's a library book—"

He laughed out loud, and she began to laugh, too—weakly.

"That's the kind of objections you have—"

"Powder, and soap—"

They clung to each other, rocking with helpless, choking laughter.

When at last he had gone Lily Lou tiptoed to her room. She walked on air. She was light-headed, dizzy with happiness. There were reasons why she shouldn't marry Ken Sargent . . . thousands, millions of reasons, but she was going to, anyway.

She tumbled into bed and fell into a long, dreamless sleep. When the alarm went off in the morning she turned it off and lay there. "I don't have to get up. I'm going to get married," she thought.

"Lily Lou! Are you up? We're going!" May called, as she and Raymond left.

"Thanks—I'll be right there!" Lily Lou's lips settled into a smile, a smile of drowsy content. She was going to get married . . . hang the job. . . .

The clock ticked on and on. Lily Lou slept.

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Lily Lou Lansing aspires to an operatic career, but her moderate circumstances necessitates that she go to business and study music evenings. Wealthy Ken Sargent, whom Lily Lou loves, becomes angry when she insists upon practicing instead of seeing him and discontinues calling. Lily Lou grows listless and overworks trying to forget him. She goes to her parents home in Woodlake for a rest. Ken arrives and once again she is happy. She assumes an air of indifference towards Ken, however, and one night, feeling she is no longer interested, he kisses her goodbye and leaves for town. Lily Lou rushes down the path to stop him and stumbles. Ken runs back to assist her and she confesses her love for him. Back in the city, they are together frequently, but Lily Lou realizes they are from different worlds and wonders at the outcome. Her sister doubts Ken's seriousness and advises Lily Lou to think more of her career. Ken takes Lily Lou to a party at his home. Mrs. Sargent's cool attitude makes Lily Lou feel she is an outsider. Lily Lou realizes the socially prominent Peggy Sage is more suitable for Ken and that night she makes a decision.

Now Go On

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Of Grief

Grief wears a somber dress and so men turn Away when she draws near.
The things she has to teach they would not learn.
Her truths they would not hear.
On flying feet they haste from her with dread.
With her they would not share
A portion of their daily drink or bread.
Or grant a fireside chair.

Yet every door must open to her touch.
With all she finds a place.
Oh, you who fear her coming overmuch,
Look well upon her face!
See there her gentle beauty, see revealed
Her strange, majestic peace.
These things her solemn raiment long concealed,
Once known, your fears will cease.

For you will find how tender grief can be,
What friends come in her train.
With unmoved heart, then, you can never see
Another's grief again.

Lily Lou tiptoed to her room after Ken had gone.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

ON THE WAY to the office one afternoon, the cab driver barked at me through the open window.

"You like good stories, mister?" he asked.

It has been so long since I heard anything like that that I was speechless for that moment. A good story? What did that mean? Suddenly it dawned on me.

"Oh, yes," I returned, "Yes, indeed. What makes you ask?"

He missed an elevated pillar by a hair as he laughed heartily.

"Well," he went on, "somethin' happened to me this mornin' that has got me laughin' ever since. I been tellin' it to all my passengers ever since, and they laughed just like I did. Would you like to hear it?"

I settled back in my seat.

"Go ahead," I replied. "The only thing I hope is that you didn't ride Winchell before you rode me."

"Who's Winchell?" inquired the driver.

That pleased me immensely.

"Never mind," I said. "Just go on with your funny story."

He cursed fluently at a policeman who was letting the cross-town traffic proceed without paying attention to the lights. Then he returned to his conversation with me.

"It's hard to believe," he insisted, "that there is such dummies in the world like I am gonna tell you about. But there must be, or I wouldn't have any funny story. Ain't that so?"

The thing was beginning to annoy me. I began to feel happy he didn't know two funny stories.

"Yes," I muttered. "That's so." He paused for a second.

"It happened like this," he cried. "I was comin' up Seventh avenue empty when I seen a guy ahead of me drivin' like he didn't know what it was all about. He'd go slow. Then he'd go fast. He'd keep blowin' his horn all the time even if somebody was crossin' the street a block away.

"Like I tell you, I'm right behind him. All of a sudden, the lights change and he put his foot down on his brakes like he was trying to push them into the pavement. So what happened? Naturally, I can't stop so quick and I give him a gentle smack in the rear. Not too hard, lemme tell you. Just one of them little smacks that we drivers have 10 times a day."

He began to laugh again.

"Well, mister," he went on, "you'd a thought I had wrecked his machine. He jumps out like a wild man and he proves to be the most excited kind of an Italian.

"'You hita my car,' he yells. 'You maka da wreck. Gimme your license.'

"I got out of my seat and I tries to argue with the mug.

"'What's all the shootin' for mister?' I asks him. 'Your car ain't hurt none. Look—there ain't even a scratch.'

"But there was no pacifyin' the guy.

"'Gimme license,' was all he would say. 'Gimme license.'

"Well, I don't want no trouble because I'm a kind of peaceful guy. There wasn't no cop around, so I did like the mug wanted. I took out my license and gave it to him.

"And then what do you think he done? He puts the license in his pocket, jumps into his car and drives off!

"Can you imagine my feelin's? You coulda knocked me down with a Mack truck. I commence to holler, jump into my cab and begin to chase him. I catch him about three blocks away, press him to the curb and jump out again.

"'Are you nuts?' I asks him. 'Gimme back my license. What's the matter with you?'

"The guy wouldn't come across with my license. He just keeps shakin' his head while the crowd gets bigger and bigger. Finally a cop comes along and I explains what has took place.

"The cop goes over to him—and still the Italian won't give my license back to me. It takes the copper at least five minutes to convince him, and, while he finally does pass it back to me, he does it like he's partin' with his last buck.

"Then the cop grows curious. He looks at the feller and he says:

"'You musta had some reason for not wantin' to give back that license. What was it?'

"The Italian is on the verge of tears.

"'Mister Policeman,' he says, 'I'm joost driva this car for two days. The man who sella it to me tella me very' strick. He says to me, "Tony, if you getta in accident, dont'a go 'way without you take the other fellow's license." Isn't that joost what I did?'"

DAN CURRY tells of an elderly actor who always dresses as though he were a college kid instead of a grandfather. A couple of newspaper men saw him ankle by the other afternoon and one of them said:

"That bird certainly dresses like a young fellow. And he's at least 60."

"You don't know the half of it," murmured the other. "He's wearing knickerbockers under that suit in preparation for his second childhood."

OF A RECENT night, I guided two chaps around the night belt. It was the first time either one had ever done the late dives and they wanted to do them right. The rougher, the better.

It was agreed that I should pay all expenses—splitting them three ways when the little outing came to a conclusion.

Around 4 in the morning I guided the boys into a steer joint. You know, the kind of a spot where the hostesses sit around and wait for the cab driver to steer the suckers in. If they know you, you're fairly safe. If they don't—ouch!

The proprietor walked over to our table. He was a gaunt guy with shifty eyes. Gaunt, but not forgotten.

"Want any girls?" he asked.

I nodded. It was safer that way.

"But only one," I said, "Just to sort of keep the boys company while we're sitting around here."

He brought over a lean kid with a dark complexion. She was cute, and not too fresh. She sat with us for an hour, talking. When it was time to leave, I called her to one side and gave her $15.

"Thank you very, very much," she murmured earnestly. "It certainly is marvelous of you. Please come back soon again."

I nodded, induced the coat room girl to part with our coats, and left the club. On the way uptown, in the cab I turned to my two companions.

"Say," I said, "maybe I'm not such a wise guy as I thought I was. I think I gave that dame too much money. I handed her $15 and that's liable to spoil her."

The chap on my right looked at me in amazement.

"Did you give her $15?" he asked. "Why, I gave her $10 myself!"

We reached one chap's home. He said good night and departed. Then I drove to my other friend's home.

"Why so quiet, Frank?" I inquired. "Still thinking about that hostess?"

He looked at me.

"Well," he offered slowly, "I didn't want to say anything while Tom was here. But I gave her $10 too." . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Managers of the 17 Warner theaters in which meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club chapters are held every Saturday are receiving applications and arranging programs for the big Washington's Birthday celebrations Saturday. Rehearsals will be held at the call of the managers. Watch for the songs to be sung. They will be published in this column. When they appear, cut them out and take them to the meeting with you.

The big feature of the meeting Saturday was the anniversary of the Boy Scouts, conducted under the leadership of J. H. Bradfute, district commissioner. The drum and bugle corps played several selections. John H. Snodgrass and Jack Tirkes did a drum specialty, and the drum major performed some fancy capers with his baton. Two novelty numbers were presented by the "little German band."

Following the regular opening ceremonies of the Mt. Oliver Chapter, led by the Grand Jester, a snappy dance revue was offered by Jean Boyle's Juveniles. Song and dance numbers were presented by Jean Spurrier, Doris Ulrich, Dorothy Smith, June Stelz, Mary Rebmann, Billy Leach, Bill Price and Mary Shenkel. Arrangements are being made for a patriotic program to be presented at the meeting on Washington's Birthday.

Election of officers was the big event at the meeting of the Rowland (Wilkinsburg) chapter. The boys and girls elected to serve for the coming four weeks are: Grand jester, Yves DiCugno; board of governors, Lois Belle Pryor, Dorothy Baseman, James Johnstown, Dorothy Dysern, Robert Rogers and Juniata Friend. The new grand jester sang songs in French, which delighted the members.

NATION AGOG OVER FRISBY WELCOME PLANS

Everywhere in these United States are groups of people whispering, chattering, some of them giggling a little with nervous excitement, but all busy—busy with plans for the welcoming home of Manchuria's Miracle Man, Horace W. Frisby. Details are not complete, but it is thought that after the Girl Scouts have told Mr. Frisby what they think of him, he will be whisked away through the noonday crowds to his suite at the municipal auto camp. There he will greet each of his admirers with some appropriate Manchurian phrase—in English, out of consideration for those who do not happen to understand Manchurian. After he has opened all the presents brought him, and done the tissue paper and ribbon up into neat bundles for next Christmas, he will take his nap, while outside thousands chant:

"Good morning to you,
Good morning to you,
Good morning, Horace Frisby,
Good morning to you."

Councilman English Shows Proper Concern for the City's Welfare in Asking About Improvements.

Councilman W. Y. English has made a praiseworthy move in introducing in Council a resolution inquiring when we may expect the Pennsylvania to build its new station and make the other terminal improvements for which we have been waiting so long. The measure shows proper concern for the city's welfare.

The Pennsylvania's business has fallen off, to be sure; it is not so easy to finance improvements as it was in flush periods. But Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, has himself said that this is an excellent time to go ahead with construction projects because of the low price of materials and the superior efficiency of labor, and is reported to plan to get money for $175,000,000 worth of improvements on the company's eastern lines through a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It is unreasonable to expect Pittsburgh to wait for years for the new station, especially in view of the fact that several blocks of buildings have been demolished to make room for it.

Rural Sidewalks

The Need for Footpaths to Protect Pedestrians from Automobiles Steadily Increases.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club is looking into the feasibility of converting the abandoned tracks of the Pittsburgh-Mars Interurban Short Line between Etna and Allison Park into a sidewalk for pedestrians. An excellent idea.

The need for footpaths to protect pedestrians from automobiles steadily increases. In many of the rural sections of the county children are compelled to use the paved highways in going to and from school. The new Flaugherty's Run road in Moon and Findley townships is one example. There is no alternative but to tramp in the mud.

The use of the highways by pedestrians, especially at night, is dangerous, both to the people on foot and to the motorists—to the latter because they are sometimes compelled suddenly to swerve off the road to avoid hitting pedestrians.

Allegheny County leads all other counties, even Philadelphia, with its 600,000 greater population, in motor fatalities—leads by a wide margin. Perhaps these accidents would be fewer if sidewalks were provided in the rural sections.

Senator James J. Coyne, when running for County Commissioner last year, said that if elected he would propose putting the unemployed to work making concrete slabs that could be set up as sidewalks alongside the country roads. The plan seems to have merit, and the County Commissioners might well look into it.

If Senator Coyne's plan is not satisfactory, let the sidewalks be established in some other manner. Footpaths of "red dog" or cinders would be an improvement on present conditions.

A Question of Ethics

An Interesting Problem Is Presented by the Return of $4,000 by a Thief.

Should a lawyer attempt to procure the acquittal of a client whom he knows to be guilty of the crime with which he is charged?

A variant of this eternal question is presented in the case of the thief who yesterday returned, through his attorney, Frank A. Bogadek, $4,000 that he stole three weeks ago from the coat of a workman in an Etna steel mill. Along with the $4,000 the thief sent $20 interest.

Notwithstanding the return of the money, District Attorney Andrew T. Park points out that a crime was committed and the criminal should be apprehended. He has accordingly directed the county detectives to find the thief.

Bogadek could tell who the culprit is, but will not; and Park agrees it would be a breach of professional ethics for him to betray his client.

There may be moralists who would maintain that Bogadek should tell, or be made to tell. But the liberal-minded public will make no such demand and will not be greatly concerned if the repentant thief is not brought to trial.

Thiel's Fine Stand

The College at Greenville Has Done a Commendable Thing in Abolishing Athletic Scholarships.

Thiel College is entitled to commendation for its decision to remove every suggestion of commercialism from the methods employed in procuring players for its athletic teams.

Athletic scholarships, it is announced, are to be abolished. That means that Thiel's football players are going to be required to play for the love of the game and the love of Thiel, and not for a financial consideration. It means that Thiel's teams will be recruited from the student body and will not be composed of athletes chosen for the team before they came to the college.

Perhaps Thiel, by doing away with every vestige of professionalism, will win fewer victories than heretofore; but there will be a gain in self-respect.

It is to be hoped the colleges that compete with Thiel on the athletic field will follow this fine example.

A Cowardly Poisoner

It Is to Be Hoped the Humane Society Will Succeed in Catching the Killer of Dogs.

Fifteen dogs, the pets of people in the neighborhood, have been poisoned recently in Termon avenue and the vicinity.

The poisoner is a coward. If the dogs had given him legitimate cause for complaint legitimate means were open to him to obtain relief from the nuisance. But it is probable that the killer had no excuse whatever for his action, but was prompted solely by a cruel disposition.

The Humane Society has offered rewards for the apprehension of the poisoner. It is to be hoped the search will be successful and that the miscreant will be sent to prison.

To meet a financial crisis 10 years ago Canada turned to the Sales Tax as the least objectionable and most equitable and profitable of all federal taxes. It was so successful that it has become an accepted and integral part of the Canadian fiscal system.

This was after our Neighbor of the North had tried a high income tax, a war profits tax, a corporation tax, and various forms of nuisance taxes and found that they failed to meet the revenue raising needs.

Canada found the sales tax easy to collect, socially non-burdensome. Exemption of articles for food and shelter protects the masses; similar exemption of articles for primary production assists business and financial classes. The tax is borne without complaint. It does not cripple business.

What Canada has done, Uncle Sam CAN AND SHOULD DO.

Let Congress turn to Canada for ways and means to balance the national budget!

Tempt Women to Buy!

Perhaps you think that there is no war being waged in this part of the world, just now; but you are mistaken. The biggest battle of the ages is being fought. It is the battle between modern women and the style-designers!

* * *

Women who NEED clothes, are yearning for clothes and have the cash to BUY clothes—cannot find a single thing in this year's styles that tempts their fancy!

* * *

Believe it or not, even rich women have to be TEMPTED to buy clothes. And any woman who can remember as far back as 1910 and visualize herself as she looked then, is not tempted to repeat the atrocity.

Even Parisian style-designers should know that, though the American woman has a pretty weak will, when it comes to resisting anything that will make her more beautiful, she has a pretty strong WON'T when she suspects that she's being cajoled into making herself look like her spinster aunt.

* * *

I honestly believe that at least part of the trouble was caused by that fatal move, in a critical time like 1929, to alter the feminine silhouette. To deprive the American woman of her graceful short skirts, her becoming straight lines, and all the sane and charming styles which made her look younger and prettier than women have ever looked before.

* * *

And I truly believe that a lot of money would be loosened up, if those oh-so-clever French designers would study feminine psychology and TEMPT women to buy clothes. But no woman, who has ever looked through a family album is going to be tempted back into corsets, basques, bustles, spitcurls and doodads!

This is no bandoline and whalebone age, even though male stylists still appear to have notions about women that are as antique as the pyramids and as set as a bunch of wax flowers under glass.

* * *

As it is, half the women I know are still wearing the remains of the clothes they were tempted to load themselves down with in the days when clothes were beautiful. And the other half are going to dressmakers and designing their own clothes.

* * *

But a man's head is like a non-refillable bottle. You just can't change its contents! So women will go right on wailing for clothes and shops, and factories will go right on wailing for customers, until some Paris designer wakes out of his Rip-Van-Winkle doze and creates clothes so tempting that women can't RESIST buying them!

* * *

Alphonse! Gaston! Don't you know that you can TEMPT a woman—but you can't BULLY her!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A movie for elegantees in the upper social brackets has become a whopping success along the Gold Coast. Called the Plaza and located in the fashionable East Fifties, it is the only neighborhood cinema to flaunt an automobile starter caparisoned in gold braid.

The manager changes from afternoon attire to tuxedo after dark and the lady in the ticket cage in the same manner appears decollete. At the curb is always a line of motor cars with liveried chauffeurs and not infrequently the companionate footman. Admission is a dollar.

Programs are confined solely to pictures—current news shots, a travel short, a Mickey Mouse and a feature picture. The feature is usually one seen on Broadway a few weeks before. In the late afternoon, tea is served in a basement by silver buckled butlers.

Seating capacity is around 1,200 and the last dozen rows slope upward and are for men and women who smoke. The attendance is largely those who do not care to be taped off with the disciplined rabble in the baroque temples on and adjacent to Broadway.

There are flapper debutantes, lorgnetted dowagers and the like from the mansions, apartment houses and de luxe hotels nearby. Many have attended late dinner parties and want to kill a little time before going to night clubs. Nearly all are on speaking acquaintance.

Now and then an untouchable wanders in but as a rule is so smothered by the starchy diffidence that he sneaks out and does not come back. The amusing display of affectations is as pronounced as usual among "those who belong." Such as "Fawney, meeting you heah," and other la de dah.

I sat behind an ermined creature, squired by a stiffly accented British lad. A news shot of Queen Marie of Rumania was shown. Said the lady, so all about might hear: "Marie is such a dear. Seeing her reminds me I have not answered her last letter." My mental reply was anticipated in the next comedy, titled "Nuts!"

* * *

Phil Baker was long-distanced on tour the other day that a company in which he was a big stockholder was "going through the wringer." At the conclusion the impish Baker cried: "That's what I call wafting swell tidings"—and hung up.

* * *

Gay Ninety memories of rainy day skirts and gilt rolling pins were recalled on the avenue today. A gallant, wearing a spurious bloom of the barber shop, swung out of East Fifty-first street sporting a bright purple Ascot tie. The Ascot, in popular thought, has been relegated to the shelf of fashiondom cluttered with celluloid collars, yet it looked extremely smart. In fact, "durn smart."

* * *

The first Ascot I ever beheld was a vivid red, and adorned Fred Foster, who came from the city to grace the reception desk of our leading hotel, a fine figure with a middle part in wavy and prematurely silver hair. He seemed as sure of himself as a cockerel bishop and was the first man in town to have his nails done and sport a ribbon watch fob.

* * *

Speaking of neckties, the neatest description I ever read was by the late and gifted Charles R. Barnes. He was telling of an obnoxious fellow who was finally throttled by a gentleman he was annoying. "He choked him," wrote Barnes, "until his tongue stuck out like a pink plush tie."

* * *

In a single block today, I stopped to talk to Frank Craven and Leon Errol. Neither is appearing on the local boards at a momentous moment when the world is in such dire need of clean comedy. Each is financially secure and may be indulging a right to a sabbatical season. But if it is not something like that I give it to you for serious consideration in studying the vexing problem: What's the matter with the theater?

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Do wage cuts pay? Some people say they don't.

During the past two years many big industrial corporations, instead of cutting the wages of laborers who are least able to bear such a loss, have cut dividends to the proportions of savings bank interest—in some cases, waived dividends entirely.

Others believe that wage cutting does pay. They say it permits the owners to keep business going, create more jobs for men, and so helps both the owner and laborer.

Nice argument. The president of one of the biggest tire companies is particularly enthusiastic about it. He told the Committee of One Hundred—a millionaires' club at Miami—that reduced wages are the most effective tonic for depressed business, and pointed to his 1931 profit of $6,028,000 as evidence. This sum is four times as great as the profit of 1930, and he says wage cuts did it. So there's no doubt that wage cuts have benefited that company.

But have that company's employes benefited by it? Are they enthusiastic about the wage cut policy? The president of the company neglected to say.

But, if you're interested, you might like to hear about another big company, also in the front rank in its line—a company that has a chain of nine cotton mills. It is a very wealthy and successful company, one of the largest manufacturers of cotton goods in the world.

Starting with a piffling investment of $25,000, it has reached its present capitalization of $20,000,000 without needing to obtain any money by the sale of common stock. Moreover, in spite of hard times, it has been able to pay all its dividends, with additional bonuses, and has canceled all its debts. Naturally its executives are proud of their record; and they, too, believe that the miracle has been wrought by wage cutting.

Now let's see how this company's employes feel about it. Just how much are they profiting by all this prosperity?

It's employes work 55 hours per week. They trade, and are expected to trade, at the company stores. The company store bills are always deducted from the wage. The following figures were obtained from actual records and pay envelopes:

All employes of this company have been cut at least once during the past year. Some have been cut three times. Here are 10 cases giving the original and the present wages:

Name of employe	Original weekly wage	Number of cuts	Present weekly wage
Mrs. A.....	$14.00	2	$ 4.00
Mrs. B.....	16.00	3	8.00
Mrs. C.....	13.00	2	7.00
Mr. D.....	11.00	1	9.90
Mr. E.....	24.00	1	16.00
Mr. F.....	20.00	2	10.00
Miss G.....	9.60	1	8.50
Miss H.....	12.00	2	9.00
Mr. I.....	13.00	2	9.00
Mrs. J.....	15.00	1	10.00

Ten cases. Ten human beings who need and desire all those things which other human beings desire and need; who suffer as you and I suffer—and dream as you and I dream. And that is what they receive—that is all they receive—for 55 hours of work a week.

But no one can say that the company executives do not cooperate whole-heartedly in helping them solve their problems. Recently the president of that company addressed a Sabbath Day rally of his workers. He was in a genial, friendly mood. He said many pleasant and comforting things. Amongst them was the information that the average textile worker's family of four (five, including the worker) could live on $1.35 per week, food to be budgeted as follows:

24 pounds of flour
4 pounds of lard
8 pounds of potatoes
1 peck meal

This, you will note, included no coffee, meat, milk, eggs, butter or vegetables.

Compare this with the folder issued by the United States Department of Labor, in which, it is stated that the minimum amount upon which a family of five can possibly survive without disease, malnutrition and death is from $7.50 to $10.00—according to locality. And this is an "emergency ration."

ISN'T IT SO?

The only way to have friends is to be one.

In this time of depression a lot of people are having to do without things their parents never enjoyed.

A young man admires the girl who is easy on the eyes, but usually marries the one who is easy on the ears.

Narrow-minded men also have one-track minds.

Every man may be born free and equal, but many of them have a hard time proving it to their wives.

All the world's a stage and its largely up to us whether the performance is comedy or tragedy.

Hamlet With Hamlet Left Out

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Most of us had assumed that Lincoln's birthday was made a national non-partisan legal holiday that tribute may be paid to him; but looking over the newspaper reports of the dinners and celebrations, it appears that it is not Lincoln, but the Republican party of today, for whom the day has been set aside. Members of the cabinet and Senator Watson, Republican leader in the Senate, fared forth with their speeches in manuscript, after copies had been left with the Republican National Committee for distribution by that eminent Lincolnian, Mr. Lucas. These took up many columns of the papers. In reading these speeches one has difficulty in finding much about Lincoln.

While Lincoln's name was on the menu cards, it was Hoover's name that was on the lips of the orators.

A suspicious soul might conclude that the plan was to slip Lincoln from the pedestal and substitute Mr. Hoover—without anyone noticing the change. But the features, as well as the principles and philosophy, of the two men, are so glaringly different that most of us caught the substitution at once. They neither look nor act alike. Lincoln believed that "the principles of Jefferson are the definitions and the axioms of a free society."

* * *

Hoover Big Figure; Lincoln Only Casual

The keynote sentence of most of these panegyrics of Mr. Hoover—for Mr. Lincoln was only mentioned casually—was that he is the greatest of our leaders; and one Under-Secretary, in the intoxication of his rhetoric, pronounced him the "leader of the world." Another reminded us that he is an "expert"—and that was painfully reminiscent of 1928, when, through expert management, we were going to "eliminate poverty," after the experts from the days of Harding had "put business on the basis of permanent prosperity." It worked once—why not again? There were a few notes, that fairly shrieked in 1928, that were strangely missing. Nothing was said about "a chicken in every pot" or "sanitary plumbing." And we missed, too, Charles Evans Hughes' rather smug question, put to a New York audience that year—"Would you entrust the business and prosperity of the country to the Democrats?"

Lincoln was shunted off to the wings; and it was not Mr. Hoover, the President, who was toasted—it was Mr. Hoover, Republican candidate for President.

* * *

An After-Thought Of Party Policy

We are impressed with one statement by Senator Watson:

"There seems to be an obsession in certain quarters here that Europe should settle America's problems, while America should settle Europe's debts. Such is not the conception of the President of the United States and such action will never meet with his approval."

Perhaps this is an afterthought of party policy.

M. Laval, after his secret conferences with Mr. Hoover, returned to France with an assurance to his people that there would be a scaling down or "cancellation" of the debts. This is the impression Laval got from his conversations.

Then came the President's proposal to recreate the War Finance Corporation. Why? To consider the debt problem? To recommend an increase in the debts? Of course not. What, if not to "consider capacity to pay" and to recommend another reduction in the debts with another increase of the burdens of our people?

Senator Watson did not see fit to explain that recommendation; or the more frank recommendation of Secretary Mellon in his report to Congress.

Congress, and most all of Congress, was so firmly convinced that the President did plan either another reduction or the transfer of the whole debt to our own people, that in passing the moratorium measure the Democratic House, over the grumbling from administration quarters, put in the amendment making it plain that we would not transfer the debts of other nations to our own people.

That was a vote of "no confidence" in the administration.

* * *

New Europe Wears Its Mourning Garb

And when the Democratic House took that American stand for American rights and American interests, what was the effect in Europe?

When Laval returned to Paris, from his secret conferences with the President, he was received most rapturously on the boulevards—for every one was delighted with the understanding as to the debts, as Laval understood it.

The European press was pleased—quite generally, and there was blithesome optimism in the papers.

And then the Democratic House went on record in behalf of the American taxpayers—and the European press took on the habiliments of mourning, and the European editorial writers made bitter attacks against us.

The administration has been against the "cancellation" of the debt since the American people spoke through Congress.

* * *

Watson in Same Boat With Hoover

It is common knowledge in Washington and in Indiana that Senator Watson is not an ardent admirer of the President.

That he does not think him a great leader.

That he does not really see the resemblance to Lincoln.

But the Senator is up for re-election this fall; and he must run under the leadership, and on the "achievements" and the record of the administration; and he cannot hope to win if Mr. Hoover loses. However uncongenial the companionship, the Senator finds himself in the same boat with the administration and knows they must float or sink together.

* * *

'Expert Government' Guesses Wrong Again

Meanwhile the administration of "experts" and "engineers of government" has gone, in the person of Ogden Mills, to the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and admitted that it under-estimated revenues to the extent of another half billion.

After three years of "expert" government by "the only people fit to govern," the administration goes to the Democratic House and says that in one year we must so tax the people, all of whom are desperately suffering financially, to raise not only the stupendous amount normally required, but to raise almost one billion and a half more to meet a deficit of one billion and a half.

Mr. Crisp, acting Democratic leader, went immediately to the House, transmitted the tragic information, and putting country first, declared that the money must be raised through the most drastic taxation through which every one must suffer. But he added:

"This deficit is the deficit of a Republican administration."

* * *

Albany G. O. P. Plays Cheap Politics

The Democratic House has moved soberly, sanely and with celerity to the performance of the solemn duties imposed upon it by an economic and financial collapse made inevitable by the policies of the party in power. It has postponed politics. And it has won the confidence of thoughtful Americans.

How different in Albany—which acts on plans perfected by the administration in Washington. The Republican Legislature's plan to use public money for a purely partisan "investigation" of the Roosevelt administration is brazen and cheap as anything Republican Legislatures have been doing in Albany for 13 years. In unfairness it is to be on a par with the Seabury investigation. But the public, which decides, has observed that—

That the Republican Legislature at Albany is doing nothing else.
